Hopes for Saving the "Dinky" Clouded by Dollar Shortage and Governmental Double-Talk

For commuters hurrying across University Place, newspapers under their arms, to catch the 7:40 Dinky, there is only one news story that matters: the February 26 report of the U.S. Railway Association on the future of northeast rail lines.

Will the Penn Central's Dinky be saved, or has it gotten the ax?

Last Wednesday, a delegation of about a dozen Princeton and West Windsor residents marched sternly on Washington (starting their journey, naturally, by climbing on board that same 7:40 Dinky), to urge the U.S.R.A.—"Save the Dinky!"

They returned to Princeton that evening, rueful about the reception they had received, not optimistic about their chances for success, but determined doughtily to fight on.

The U.S.R.A.'s plan calls for setting up a new organization known as Conrail to take over northeast U.S. freight operations. And "freight" seems to be the magic word to the U.S.R.A., the Dinky Delegates found. Conrail is for freight. The Dinky carries only human freight (except for about 30 to 40 freight cars a year, bound for Alexander Street lumber yards or perhaps the University).

The human freight carried by the Dinky in its 2.7 mile run from Princeton to the Princeton Junction main line of Penn Central, consists of about 900 commuters daily. Without the Dinky, they must drive to Princeton Junction, where they would probably cause West Windsor to sink under the weight of parking lots.

Last Wednesday, the delegation made its case to Nelson Slater of the U.S.R.A. in the Senate Office Building offices of New Jersey Senator Harrison Williams. The Senator's private office is not a large room, and the delegates sat or perched on the big leather couch and chairs and stood in the aisles—so to speak—like commuters on a crowded train.

Many of the delegates were frustrated and annoyed. The presentation, so carefully researched over a period of days and rehearsed during the three-hour train trip to Washington, seemed to come apart piece by piece, like a jig-saw puzzle, and no one official heard the whole story.

Senator Williams heard only the briefest beginning because he had pressing Senate business. Although the 2:30 meeting had been set far in advance, Mr. Slater was half an hour

Miss Euell to Seek Reasons for Board's Denial of Tenure; Eric Craig, Joseph Moore Say Vote Was Sexist and Racist

Virginia Euell, denied reappointment last week as principal of the Middle School, is now drafting a letter to the school board asking why they rejected her.

The letter will be delivered later this week. When the board has replied, Ms. Euell said, she will probably make the reply known to the public.

Meanwhile, the teachers at the Middle School reported the results of a staff meeting held last Wednesday to poll instructional and office staff on the Euell action. (see "Mailbox," Page 16).

Of 74 staff members responding, 41 agreed with a statement to "reaffirm our confidence in (Ms. Euell's) principalship and our appreciation of her leadership." There are 78 members of the office and instructional staff.

In the poll, 21 disagreed with the statement of confidence and 12 abstained from the count.

The committee of ten has asked to meet with the present school board, which will shortly go out of office, and has scheduled a meeting with candidates for the school board. Townspeople who support Ms. Euell are also asked to tell the board and candidates their views.

Committee Formed. A group of men defining themselves as "Concerned Citizens" has formed under the leadership of school board candidate John Bailey to support Ms. Euell.

Citing the board's negative vote as "totally irresponsible and uncalled for," the group declares that, for many black children, Ms. Euell "represented a positive image, especially when contrasted to the hard-nosed traditionalists who do not ever understand. To these kids, she was an educator in a responsible position who would take time to confer with them on a regular basis in an attempt to solve problems which they were experiencing."

The statement concludes by stating that board members who voted against the Euell appointment "should be held accountable to substantiate their votes."

More voices in support of Ms. Euell were heard late Tuesday afternoon at a press conference at the home of Board member Eric Craig. Mr. Craig and Borough Councilman Joseph P. Moore both presented statements charging that subtle and overt forms of discrimination were the root causes of the Board's action.

Mr. Craig supplied as evidence a memorandum written by Board President Winthrop S. Pike at the time of Patricia Wertheimer's resignation as principal in spring, 1973. The memorandum, Mr. Craig asserted, is an indication of discrimination and "lack of professionalism" that rose again in the case of Ms. Euell.

"Sexist." In the memorandum, which discussed various traits the Board should seek in a new principal, Mr. Pike wrote: "A citizen said to me on reading of Patricia Wertheimer's resignation, 'Get a man—and a tough one.' I suspect this aptly sums up the views of many parents, students and other citizens. In common with them. . .I'd like a man—a tough one."

In Mr. Craig's eyes, the statement was discriminatory. In a prepared statement he said: "Although racism is difficult to prove, it is my feeling that the second paragraph of this document clearly deals in sexist discrimination, and if this does exist, I have no choice but to believe that other types of discrimination also exist. It is my feeling that this kind of attitude will set education backward instead of forward."

Mr. Pike is running for reelection to the Board in next week's election. That fact, coupled with the presence at the press conference of Mr. Bailey, one of the candidates in the election and a supporter of Ms. Euell, prompted the thought that Mr. Craig was making a last-ditch effort to unseat Mr. Pike and others who did not support Ms. Euell.

Mr. Criag, whose own term on the Board is expiring this week, emphasized that his charge was not personal. "Being a member of the Board of Education I have an obligation in bringing forth any type of information to the public which I feel is of a discriminatory nature," he said.

White Pressure? He added that he did not expect the Euell case to be resolved in her favor. "I would love to see a change," he said, "but it would be difficult for me to see it."

Mr. Moore said that pressure from the white community helped persuade the Board to cast negative votes on Ms. Euell. "Heavy, subtle, racial overtones contributed significantly to the decision," he said in his statement, which was also signed by the Rev. Floyd N. Rhodes Jr. "We also contend that the conspiracy against Ms. Euell began largely in the white community."

"Many whites, in fact, believe that blacks are incompetent when it comes to educating their children, and this belief is shared, practiced and reinforced by the Board." Mr. Moore stated that the refusal of the Springdale Golf Club to accept Marvin Trotman's membership application stands as another example of racism in the Princeton community.

DESIGN REVIEW LISTED

On Planners' Agenda. A revised proposal for an Environmental Design Review Ordinance that would virtually standardize the process in Borough and Township will be aired before the public at the Regional Planning Board meeting Tuesday night at 8. The Mayors of both Princetons have expressed their satisfaction with the proposed ordinance.

The ordinance would subject future developments to 14 environmental criteria, including landscaping, drainage, noise, traffic, waste, and utilities. Although minor differences exist in the way the ordinance will be enacted in Township and Borough, the general effect of the ordinance would be to exempt minor developments, such as conversiuns of single family dwellings to two-family, from the rigorous review.

"It's a very tight ordinance," said Township Mayor Jay Bleiman. "It clarifies a lot of existing procedures."

Mayor Robert Cawley noted that the Borough ordinance is now set up so it won't "pose an unfair burden on anyone." Full information, he said, "will be required only where it is really needed."

The meeting is technically classified as a public hearing on the ordinance, although the Regional Planning Board has no authority to enact it. After the discussion next week, to which various agencies have been invited to comment, the ordinance will be introduced and, likely, passed by the Borough.

Joint Committee. Township already passed its version of the ordinance last fall, effective April 1. At this week's meeting, Committee voted to extend the effective date to July 1, so that minor changes worked out with the Borough can be incorporated as amendments.

The ordinance would create a joint review committee of professionals, similar to the one in the Township chaired by Terry Morgan, including professionals plus one member from each of the Township and Borough environmental committees.

The ordinance would also apply to subdivision reviews in the Township and the Borough as well as builders working on five or more individual homes within a specific subdivisioo

Exempted in the Borough are any building or use in an Education 2 district, and the conversions of single-family residences to two-family. Applications involving "minimal or minor" environmental impact, Mr. Cawley said, could be recommended by the review committee to the chairman of the planning board without public hearing. "Expeditious review," the Mayor said.

Minor Classificatinn. In the Township, the procedure allows an individual planning a conversion or other small development to request a "minor classification." Such a classification would free him late and his associate didn't come at all. Princeton's Congressional representative, Millicent Fenwick, came late because she was on the House floor, voting. Congressional Representatives Frank Thompson and Helen Meyner, from neighboring districts, had to leave early.

Save the "Dinky"

The whole contingent, shooed from Senator Williams' office because others were due to meet there, continued to talk with Mrs. Fenwick and Mr. Slater out in the marble corridor.

The Slater position: "Any branch lines not picked up by Conrail have the state to turn to."

Mr. Slater had hardly started that sentence when the delegates began to groan: they'd heard that one before. The proposal is that Federal funds would subsidize 70 percent and the state, 30 percent.

"New Jersey doesn't have 30 cents on the dollar!" exclaimed Borough Council member Barbara Sigmund.

Empty Sympathy. "That's a specious argument!" retorted John Barry. "New Jersey can't even pay for its schools. The state is 'Mother Hubbard's cupboard."

Mr. Slater, who frequently said, "I couldn't be more sympathetic," reminded petitioners that he'd been with New Jersey's Department of Transportatinn for three and one-half years in charge of commuter lines. "I'm very well aware of the Dinky and some of the problems attached to it," he said.

James Harford, a Princeton commuter who once headed a commuter boycott, advising Penn Central riders to withhold fares until the road provided better service, had a sudden thought as the presentation began.

"Maybe," he said, in hope, to Mr. Slater, "maybe we don't have to pummel you?"

Who's Got the Money? "My position is that I want to hear new material," Mr. Slater replied. " 'Who's going to pay?' is the basic question."

He was challenged by Mrs. Sigmund. "Why is that the basic question?" she demanded. "The 1973 Railroad Act has other aims."

Edwin C. ("Pete") Hutter joined Mrs. Sigmund to point out that the Dinky is not a system in itself, but belongs to the whole of Penn Central.

"It is part and parcel of the whole northeast passenger network," Mr. Hutter told Mr. Slater—who kept nodding and saying "Right, right, right". "It's a feeder of people to Princeton Junction and the New York-Philadelphia main line of the road. It is a benefit, because those who ride don't park and don't consume gasoline."

No More Parking Space. When Mr. Slater asked "How's the West Windsor parking lot working out?" Helen Chase of West Windsor told him there is a waiting list of 200. She presented New Jersey Department of Transportation figures showing an increase in passengers from 1,650 per day in 1961, to 4,545 in 1973. "In 15 years, there will be 3,000 new commuters," she said, adding, "An expanded service would be more logical because Plainsboro and East Windsor are burgeoning!"

Her statement was later noted by George Chandler, director of the Rail Services Planning Office of the Interstate Commerce Commission, who was reportedly impressed by her figures showing population projections for Twin Rivers, Plainsboro and West Windsor.

"It was like punching tar-baby," said one Princetonian glumly, after the session with Mr. Slater.

Commuters and their allies have discovered, in fighting Penn Central and trying to pressure the government, that the railroad is vague, to say the least, on facts and figures.

"Penn Central doesn't give out its cash receipts at any of the hearings" protested John Barry to the Congressional representatives in Senator Williams' office. "Does their data belong to fact or fiction?"

Vital Facts Missing. "They never have given out figures," said John McGoldrick, another delegate, "they've never had to produce any preliminary facts."

Many delegates, including Mr. McGoldrick, believe that if Penn Central could be forced to produce figures, supporters of the dinky could make a strong enough case to make the U.S.R.A. turn around.

Hearing Dates Set

Public hearings on the U.S. Railway Association's rail reorganization plan for northeast (and midwest) railroads will be held this week of Monday, March 17, in Trenton.

Those who want to testify may make arrangements with Elizabeth Guttenberger, Interstate Commerce Commission Office, 204 Carroll Building, 428 E. State Street, Trenton (609-599-3511).

Hearings will be held daily from 9:30 to 5:30 in Room 1203, Labor and Industry Building, John Fitch Plaza, Trenton. It is possible that an evening session will be held Monday, March 17, if there are requests.

Before the meeting in Senator Williams' office, Mrs. Sigmund led the delegates through the corridors of the Capitol Building to the suite of offices occupied by Connecticut Congressman Thomas P. ("Tip") O'Neill, majority leader of the House. The Congressman was a friend of Mrs. Sigmund's late father, Representative Hale Boggs.

Unsure about just what these "dinky" people wanted---by coincidence the House debate on subsidizing the Penn Central was scheduled for the very afternoon of the delegates' Washington visit, and indeed was the reason Mrs. Fenwick was in the House chamber to vote---"Tip" O'Neill was quickly informed and as quickly gave advice:

"Present your case to Bill Tucker---he's been named by the bankruptcy trustees to dispose of Penn Central property. Find out who are the people examining New Jersey lines. And exactly what is it you want Senator Williams to DO? The decision, he concluded, "will be a political one."

Ready to Fight. Fenwick, Thompson and Meyner all declared themselves in favor: "I'd fight like a tiger to save the Dinky," Mrs. Meyner stated...."I'll do anything I can to help," said Frank Thompson, who had observed at one point, "There is a presumption in my mind that Penn Central isn't telling the truth".....Surely passengers are as important as freight?" Mrs. Fenwick asked.

What next? Mr. McGoldrick advises attending all hearings and presenting "all the facts we can get:" point out that, in accentuating freight, the U.S.R.A. is not acting in accordance with the 1973 Railway Act, which refers to "essential rail services," not solely to freight; keep up pressure with an eye on the final U.S.R.A. report due late this summer. Work on Congress.

Before the meeting with Mr. Slater, members of the delegation were guests of Mrs. Sigmund's mother, Louisiana Representative Lindy Boggs, in the member's dining-room of the House of Representatives. During lunch, Representative Bella Abzug came over to be introduced and to chat with the group.

"You're here to save a railroad? Terrific! Very important..... good luck!"

Whose who made the Washington trip were John McGoldrick, John Barry, Edwin C. Hutter, Leslie Vivian, James Harford, Borough Council member Barbara Sigmund, Township Committee member Margaret Broadwater, Mercer County Planning Board vice-chairman Ingrid Reed, transportation graduate student Joseph Phillips, all of Princeton, Helen Chase and Pat Bell of West Windsor and Joseph Shanahan of Lambertville.

(Another story on the Dinky will appear next week.)

Four Township Candidates Seeking Two Places On School Board—Borough without a Contest

At least one thing is sure aboot the results of next Tuesday's school election: Robin Wallack will represent the Borough on the school board for a three-year term. She is unopposed for the single Borough seat available this year.

Township voters will have to choose two from the foor candidates on the ballot: incumbent Winthrop Pike and his running mate Dale Madden; John Bailey and Elizabeth Smith. (For their opinions on various issues, see page 6.)

And then there's the $8 million school budget. Will voters pass it or give it failing marks? If it's voted down, it will, by state law, become the homework of Borough Council and Township Committee, (which means it probably has the heartfelt "yes" vote of at least those 11 monicipal officials.)

The school board election campaign, which started out docilely enough, became pricklier after the Euell-Petrillo re-appointment vote of the school board last week. The appearance of these two controversial principals in election campaigning is a by-product of the postponed school election: if elections had been held in February, as they traditionally are, it would have been the new school board members who made the so-called "tenure" appointments.

Asked at a Littlebrook P.T.O. candidate's meeting Monday how they would have voted, Mr. Madden said he would have joined Mr. Pike's actual vote: "no" on Euell and "yes" on Petrillo.

Opposed to Petrillo. Mrs. Smith said "For a salary of $28,000, we could do better than Petrillo," and suggested that Ms. Euell might be good in the PSH principalship. Mr. Bailey, a strong supporter of Ms. Euell, said people should be voted in if they were doing their job, and it really came down to whether you liked the person or not. Mr. Pike took umbrage at this, and said it was "utterly irresponsible" to say the Euell-Petrillo decisions were made on any basis other than competence.

Asked to comment on the Wednesday Program, cnadidates at Monday's meeting agreed that it needed work. Mr. Pike reminded everyone that he has never been a friend of the program, and Mr. Madden said he woold have voted against it, "althoogh I am a major advocate of staff development."

The Learning Community was favored as an innovative program which might nevertheless be too costly, by Mr. Madden and supported as a way of teaching kids to take responsibility, by Mrs. Smith. Mr. Bailey observed that "it gives kids a chance to be 'in college' while still in PHS."

The "weakest" part of the system, Mr. Pike and Mr. Madden said in response to a question, is the Middle School; Mr. Bailey said it was the application of quality education to black kids; Mrs. Smith said it was high school science.

Parents Most Help. Responding to Mr. Bailey's remark, Mr. Madden said the opportunity for eqoal education exists, but suggested "black kids may not avail themselves, because of background or lack of knowledge. If parents aren't working with kids, it's not the faolt of the system."

Communication, all candidates seemed to agree, is a problem. Mr. Pike conceded that "I'm not as closely in touch with black students as I should be;" Mrs. Smith said she "wanted everything out in the opeo, on the table" and one member of the Littlebrook audience complained, "It's so hard to find out anything you want to know!"

Brief position statements on each candidate appear on page 6. Community activity on their behalf has been negligible, or at least invisible, compared to the "Friends of ....." campaigns of other years. The Black Caocos, which often endorses candidates, for example, is sitting this one out.

A letter presented to the school board last week charging Mr. Petrillo with lack of qoalifications for the PHS job is being held in abeyance ontil after the election. One of the signers was Candidate Smith.

BUSES FROM COUNTY?

Mercer May Roo Loop. Noting a major change in Princeton's Loop Bus planning, Mayor Robert Cawley announced Tuesday that Princeton is no longer applying to the federal Urban Mass Transit Authority (UMTA) for two buses of its own. Instead, Princeton now intends to acquire the use, under Mercer Metro operation, of two buses from the county.

Mercer County's commitment to operate the Loop Bus system depends upon the approval by UMTA of a county application for 35 new buses at the present time as part of a longer-term 55-bus request. Originally, Princeton had intended to "piggyback" its request for two buses onto the county application.

Mayor Cawley said that the new arrangement would cost less to Princeton and possibly provide more flexibility in routes. He indicated that Mercer Metro is considering an additional route of its own to link with Princeton, and that some sort of public transportation would be needed to serve the new Princeton Community Housing.

The Mayor speculated that the county's application is qoite certain to be approved within the next year, but that delivery time cannot yet be estimated. Therefore, Princeton must make interim plans to provide continued Loop Bus service once the present three-month operating arrangement with Suburban Transit expires on April 1.

To maintain service after April 1, Princeton is now discussing with the State a temporary bus loan until Mercer County receives delivery from UMTA. Princeton would have to pay Mercer Metro to operate the borrowed buses if such an arrangement is established.

Mayor Cawley made these observations after having accompanied Mrs. Elizabeth Hutter, Township Committeewoman, to Trenton last week to testify in support of the Mercer County bus application.

"RACE WAS A FACTOR" In Trotman Rejectioo. Declaring that lack of an explanation by the Springdale Golf Club for its reasons in rejecting the membership application of Marvin Trotman made it "a fair inference that race was a factor," Princeton's Joint Commission on Civil Rights has announced plans to charge Springdale with discrimination unless the club reconsiders its decision.

The Commission asserts in a letter to club president Harry Volweider that "it seems odd to us that you have rejected the application of the first black," although admitting that "we do not know, of course, the details of the thinking that went into your decision."

The letter was signed by Mrs. Martha Hartmann,

WALLET THEFTS MOUNT

Carelessness a Factor. Want some useful advice from Chief Michael Carnevale? Don't leave your wallet or purse unattended--ever! Even for a moment.

Sounds obvious. But thieves are taking advantage of this natural lapse with increasing frequency, as the police docket attests. It can happen in a twinkling, as it did last week to a man, police report, who put his wallet down on a step in front of 184 Witherspoon Street to pick up some cigarettes he had dropped. When he looked up, a youth was running away with his wallet.

There was no money in it but the victim did lose identification and credit cards.

A Princeton High School student placed her blue leather wallet on the steps near the main entrance while she was waiting for a bus last week. She lost $21. An employee of the University lost $78 when someone removed his wallet from his trousers which he had left hanging in a boiler room.

A wallet was removed from a handbag Sunday evening at the Charter Club ($20 taken) and no fewer than five wallets were reported stolen, according to police, during a rock concert on campus Saturday night.

A shoulder bag containing no wallet but valued at $20 and o matching brown suede jacket ($60) were stolen Friday from Stevenson Hall on Prospect Avenue, while a tote bag with a wallet inside containing $120 was removed from an unlocked car parked Saturday afternoon on Witherspoon Street.

Caught and Charged. Wiley Critz, 25, no known address, was arrested Monday and charged with stealing a wallet containing $14 from an office at 32 Nassau. He was arraigned the same night before Borough Judge Philip Carchman, pleading guilty. Judge Carchman scheduled sentencing for March 19, pending a presentence investigation by the probation department.

According to the police, Critz was seen in the office moments after the victim had left. Asked what he was doing there, he replied that he was looking for someone. When the victim returned, she was told about the stranger and immediately checked her purse. She discovered her wallet was missing.

Those sturdy young shoots are pushing their way through the brown earth, eager to have adequate stature when spring arrives in another three weeks. But as is often the case with the newborn, danger may be lurking nearby, and it would be best to be wary of dropping thermometers.

The mild spell of the past week is over, the Man reports, with temperature readings not likely to run much above the low 40s. But the first two months of 1975 have been most helpful to fuel oil shortages and high heating bills. since January 1, the excess in degrees above the normal mean is better than 200

It should be drier, too, after February precipitation topped the everage for the month with close to two inches Sunday and Monday. Nothing more than a possible shower is expected through the weekend.

She followed the suspect to the street and gave police a description. He was arrested a short time later in the area by Ptl. Gerald Patterson and Ptl. John Holcombe.

Just six days previously, Critz had been arrested for stealing a wallet from a purse on a table in the reference room at Firestone Library. The victim, a 17-year old student, lost $40.

A witness, however, saw the suspect reach in the purse and gave a description to Sgt. Thomas Procaccino, who had responded to a call from University Security. Police radioed the description and Ptl. Holcombe, on foot patrol between Witherspoon Street and Palmer Square, realized the description was that of a man he had told to move on a short time ago. The suspect was later apprehended by Detective Timothy Huizing and Holcombe in the Colonial Restaurant on Witherspoon Street.

He was charged with larceny under $200 and released in $500 bail.

Two in Township. Township police listed two wallet thefts.

Cheryl Eppel, Cherry Valley Road, had her wallet stolen Friday while she was attending Stuart Country Day School. She lost $35. Police said that she had left it in her coat which she had placed on a chair outside her classroom.

Mrs. Constance Fleming, Rosedale Road, had her wallet stolen from her purse which she had left under the front seat of her car, parked in the Princeton Day School rink lot. When she returned, she found her purse on the front seat. There were no signs of forced entry, police said. Her loss: $25.

A WEEK FOR VANDALISM

In the Borough. Borough police reported seven acts of vandalism last week while Township police listed another incident of driving across a lawn.

The latter was reported Sunday afternoon by David Moss, 159 Valley Road. About 30 feet of his lawn was damaged, police said, when a car drove across it during the night. Ptl. Renn Kaminski investigated.

Cars were the chief target of vandals in the Borough.

A Skillman resident reported Monday that his tires were slashed and all four hubcaps taken from his car while it was parked in the Tulane West lot. A right rear window was smashed late Saturday night of a car belonging to a Nassau Street resident, while a Township resident reported his car was vandalized between 6 p.m. and 1:30 Saturday morning while it was parked on Library Place. Police said the left front fender and rear door had been pushed in and a rear window smashed.

Earlier in the week, there were these incidents: rear window of a car smashed while it was parked in a University lot, reported by the Route 1 owner; the glove compartment door bent out of shape on a car owned by a Kendall Park resident while

Medical Center Is Plagued by Delays in Excess of Two Years In Cost Reimbursement from Blue Cross and Other Agencies

Cost reimbursement complexities and plans for satellite health care facilities highlighted the annual report to the Corporation of the Medical Center at Princeton presented by Board Chairman Ralph S. Mason and Medical Center President John W. Kauffman.

Speaking at the Corporation's annual meeting Monday, Mr. Kauffman endeavored to take members "behind the headlines" to the roots of the financial crises being experienced by New Jersey hospitals. He explained how the process of cost reimbursement from Blue Cross was delayed at various levels of government intervention, causing serious problems to institutions which were faced daily with rising prices for commodities such as fuel oil, public utilities, food, and medical supplies. He indicated that the extent of repayment lag was such that "...reimbursable costs for 1972 are still not finalized...also 1973 costs are not yet reimbursed and our 1974 costs are only now undergoing the lengthy process of review by Blue Cross, Medicare and the New Jersey Department of Health."

Furthermore, the Medical Center has been alotted only $119 per day for Blue Cross patients, even though actual daily costs were approximately $132 in 1974 and are approximately $151 per day in 1975. "The result...is an operating loss in 1974 of nearly $800,000 and a current cash flow problem of serious dimensions", said Mr. Kauffman.

Mr. Mason then indicated that thus far the Board of Trustees has attempted to mitigate the situation by adopting a program of cost containment which cuts costs in excess of $400,000.

"This phase of cost containment affected only those departments not directly concerned with patient care", he said.

"However", he went on, "This commitment to minimum cost of health care is balanced by our obligation to maximum quality of health care. And we will no more shirk our obligation than we will repudiate our commitment."

Satellite Centers Studied. Turning to the Medical Center's role as a total health care system for its service area, Mr. Kauffman announced that the Board of Trustees, administration and the Medical Staff were exploring an additional feature in the system: satellite primary care centers located closer to patients in the service area.

"The importance of the proposed satellite primary care centers", said Mr. Mason, "is underscored in the recent report on the total medical center's programs, finances, and management." Made possible by a grant from the Robert Wood Johnson Foundation, the "Sheps Report" (named for study group Chairman Dr. Cecil G. Sheps) stated that the Medical Center's future rested largely on its recognition of its entire service area as its base.

"It is clear", Mr. Mason went on, "that the satellite primary care center is the most available method to solve what the Sheps Report calls 'the problem of access, equity, quality, and economy, especially in terms of primary care'."

Two Sites Considered. Mr. Kauffman added that community steering committees were being established in both the Monroe Township-Cranbury area and the Hopewell Borough-Township-Pennington area to plan for satellite centers there.

Mr. Mason reiterated the challenge of maintaining and developing the Medical Center:

"To accomplish this", he said, "we must secure a total of $10.3 million: $6 million for the requisite renovation of the Merwick and acute hospital unit; $4.3 million in long-term debt re-financing."

Raising the funds is the challenge, Mr. Mason reported, for 1975: "...to begin construction, renovation and refinancing, to initiate the establishment of satellite centers, and to resolve the reimbursement dilemma in cooperation with the New Jersey Hospital Association."

Mr. Mason went on to thank Mrs. Edna Wilson and Mrs. Dorothy Schoch, retiring members of the Board of Trustees, for their six-year terms of service, and Dr. William Besser, this year's President of the Medical and Dental Staff who also headed the committee rewriting the staff's by laws. He also announced that 1975 would be his last year as chairman of the Board.

"The association which I have been permitted with all of you", he said, "has been deeply and personally rewarding, and you may be assured that my departure from the chairmanship will in no way reduce my dedication and my desire to serve this fine institution."

parked on Quarry Street; and all four tires of a small foreign car slashed while parked behind Dial Lodge on Prospect Street. It was owned by a student.

Two patrons who had been ejected from the premises of Peacock Inn on Bayard Lane Thursday evening gave vent to their pique, police said, by uprooting and tearing down a large Peacock Inn sign in front of the building.

POLICE CHARGE THREE

In Gas Station Thefts. Three men have been arrested after a series of vending machine thefts in gas stations last week.

Arrested and charged by Twp. Ptl. David Funk with larceny, malicious damage and possession of buglary tools are Robert L. Goeke, 19, 6 Euclid Avenue, Kingston; James Pandolph, 19, and David E. Prouty, 18, both of Kendall Park. After being released in their own recognizance, they were turned over to Borough police, who charged all three with the larceny of a vending machine in the Exxon Station on Nassau Street.

Township police received a call at 4:50 Friday morning that there was a disturbance and loud banging on the rear door of Pete and Mike's Mobil Station on Bayard Lane. The closest car in the area was that of Sgt. Thomas Michaud and Ptl. Joseph Wilhelm of the Borough.

As the officers arrived, they saw two youths run from the station to a small truck parked on Birch Avenue. It sped off north on Route 206 with its lights off.

It was stopped near Nini Plymouth on Route 206 by the Borough officers, who turned the occupants over to Ptl. Funk. Ptl. Harry Moton checked the service stations and discovered that soda machines had also been broken into at Stefanelli's Amoco Station on Bayard Lane

Issues: Kids Can't Read, Get Beaten Up, Have Unmet Needs. . .and "Money!"

Voters will select three new members of the Princeton Regional Board of Education at the election next Tuesday, March 4. One seat is available for the Borough and only one candidate is running for it: Robin Wallack.

In the Township, voters are asked to vote for two people to fill the available Township positions. There are four candidates for the two seats: Winthrop Pike, incumbent; John Bailey, Dale Madden and Elizabeth Smith. Their views are presented in these columns.

John Bailey, 136 Alexander, says "I happen to be black, so what I see every day is translated into what's NOT being done in the school system. Kids can't read--this isn't a blanket indictment of all the people involved in the system, but it is an indictment of the system itself."

"PHS and the system are only partially addressing themselves to the education of black kids. The forced, cultural perspective is that of the white middle-class and this is hard for black kids. What I'm talking about--a racist struggle--is what folks don't want to talk about."

John Bailey

"Black kids don't see blacks in power positions. How does this affect a kid, inside? If the school doesn't get certain kinds of behavior, a child is labelled 'deviant' but this is a cultural phenomenon. Elementary-age kids are bused to Riverside, Johnson Park, moved from one cultoral perspective into another. This develops insecurity in a young child. So at the Middle School, they become very 'groopish.' The board went from the sublime to the ridicolous in appointing Ginny Euell last year and rejecting her this year.."

"Many black parents aren't articulate enough to express what they feel, but they know the schools aren't edueating their kids. Teachers should be more responsive: I question a contract that says 'I go home at 4 p.m.' They need to be available to help kids. And we need continoing edoeation: adult classes, day eare, drawing more on the people resources of the community."

SOMETNING old or new to sell? Try a Town Topics Classified. Call 924 2200 today.

Elizabeth Smith says "It's easy to say 'learn this way!' like some Hitler or Mussolini, bot not every child learns the same way, and there should he alternative ways of education."

Mrs. Smith, a candidate for the master's degree in elementary education from Rutgers this June, says, "Exciting things are happening in education. The school board cannot put the elock hack, and pretend things aren't happening."

Regarding PHS, the candidate says "There are tensions at PHS that aren't being dealt with. I am by no means sure, for example, that the needs of black students are being fulfilled. I think kids at PHS are told to 'cool it,' not to muddy the water, not rock the boat, not to question, and this isn't the way it should be."

Elizabeth Smith

"The Learning Community is dealt with as a threat. Kids have been discouraged from joining by the PHS staff. The community is not perfect, but it's a beginning and I'm amazed it's accomplished anything. It should have had support from within the school."

Mrs. Smith was one of the parents who signed a letter questioning PHS Principal George Petrillo's qualifications. She has a child in the Learning Community.

"I'd like to see kids working out in the community--in nursing homes, or similar institutions, learning to cope with problems. Kids need more practice in choosing, and being responsible for their choices. Schools are for KIDS--not for administrators, teachers, or parents."

Dale Madden, 155 Bertrand Drive, sees the fiscal situation as "a prime issue."

"We must prioritize our programs and decide which we can afford. I favor an emphasis on basics. I'm appalled to hear of kids gradoating without the ability to read. We need innovative programs, but we need objective evaluation proeedures documented before they are established."

Dale Madden

"The reason for experimental programs is to enhance the total education system, and their benefits should be brought back into the main stream. I'd like the benefits of the Learning Community brought back in that way, and the detracting things discarded."

"Courses like urganic hortieulture or Russian IV or Italian IV with very few kids--if they're not dropped. Maybe the tutorial approach or using the University's facilities would be better."

"Three things distorb me tremendoosly: it was illogical and unethical to present the letter against Mr. Petrillo at a public meeting. I recommend documentation of those charges. At the Middle School, I object to programs in which homogenous groups--like non-English-speaking kids--are kept out of class and worked with on school time by non-teachers. Third, the Superintendent's public statements are frequently inflammatory. I'm disturbed when he publicly states the board has displayed bad judgment. It simply adds to community polarization."

"I plan to vote for the budget, although I'd have liked to see it lower."

Winthrop Pike sees "dollars, dollars, dollars" as the crucial 1975 issue. I voted 'no' on the budget because I think it could have been reduced more. I think the Resources Center should either be reduced or eliminated."

"Our administrative costs are 85 percent higher than the state average. But oddly enough, we spend about 20 percent less than the average on textbooks. I'd like to know why."

"Administrators, of course, are out there for all to see. But we have other high costs: plant operation and maintenance are 30-40 percent above state averages. I can't fault maintenance people, but we should study what to contract out, what to do ourselves.

"On the campaign trail, I encounter great concern about unevenness at the Middle School. Apparently there is no very uniform curriculum and wide variety in the ways opportunities are offered to kids. What kids may or may not have, depends on what 'hoose' they're in. Parents see PHS as a better place than it was, and personally I think this is doe to (Principal) Petrillo.

Winthrop Pike

"My own goal is to get more of a handle on curriculom. There isn't any curriculum guide for elementary schools or the Middle School, although PHS does have a course list. Is a kid supposed to know multiplioation at the end of a certain grade? We just don't know.

"State aid problems are only solved temporarily, and a tough financial road is ahead for the next few years."

Robin Wallack, 29 Hamilton, unopposed for the Borough seat, will hold coffees after March 11 to receive comments and suggestions from the community.

"I get four to six calls daily from parents who aren't satisfied with the school system. On the academic side, they think the system is failing because kids have such problems reading and writing. They get to college or into the business world and can't cope with the work. But they were getting A's and B's in English at the high school!"

"Also, I hear many com-

plaints that kids are physically abused by other kids. The concentration seems greater at the elementary schools because in middle or high school, kids tend to take care of themselves. One second-grader's mother reported putting him to bed and finding his body covered with bruises."

"Parents don't feel anybody is acting on this problem. I think principals in each building must sit a little harder. Kids most know they're accountable if they hurt someone. If only half the stories I hear are true, it's important to take action."

"Academic problems are harder to solve. If kids are little and can't read, you figure they'll catch up. In high school, they're afraid to go to class because they can't read, and I'm convinced middle and high school discipline problems stem from this."

"I don't yet know how I will vote on the budget. People are willing to spend for what's worthwhile. But if we're paying for service not rendered....We may be spending, where we could eot".

and the Citgo Station in the Shopping Center.

Borough Police then checked Borough stations and found the coin box taken from a vending machine in the Exxon Station.

FIREWORKS CONTINUE

At School Board. After keeping comment on the potentially volatile subjects of Virginia Euell and George Petrillo to a minimum, the Princeton School Board Tuesday night turned its attention to the future of the high school's Learning Community program. As one might expect, this subject also turned out to be a volatile one and the discussion dominated the meeting.

Mr. Petrillo, the high school principal, and Superintendent Philip E. McPherson both indicated their intention of dropping the Learning Community program from next year's curriculum. The program's informal and innovative educational style, relying on close contact between students and teachers, and its high cost per student, has made its future dim, according to Mr. Petrillo.

"I have heard over and over the staff say that they cannot cope with the situation," Mr. Petrillo told the Board and the 150 or so spectators packed in the Community Park School cafeteria. "They say they're going to meetings until 10 at night, they need more staff and smaller classes. But at the same time the Board has asked me to cut back 17 staff positions. I have to cut programs too."

Dr. McPherson voiced concern over the homogeneous nature of the Learning Community student body, which now numbers about 70. "The Learning Community was born at a time of great conflict in 1971," the superintendent said.

"I invested a lot in it. I told the staff then I thought we had to have some way of randomly assigning students to the program. I felt strongly that otherwise it would become an elitist, homogeneous group. But that suggestion was not followed. It was a grat error in the original construction."

Diverse Dimension. The Learning Community was defended by a group of students and parents, who presented a polished slide show in the program's behalf. "I began to take school and my education more seriously since becoming a member of the Learning Community," said Tom Randall, a sophomore.

Peter Kenen of the parents' coordinating council pointed out that the Learning Community is not the only program of study at the high school that has a higher than average cost per student. "The Learning Community has furnished a new dimension of diversity," he said. "The students' own loyalty to it is one measure of its success."

As the night wore on, the Learning Community proponents seemed to be rallying some support from among the Board. "Dropping the program without providing some alternative would be a large step backward said Dietrich Meyerhofer. Mrs. Judith Getis added: "The decision to terminate the program doesn't seem to be based on educational reasons. Mr. Petrillo's reasons are not sufficient in my mind."

from all requirements of review.

The committee could retain a major classification for some intermediate size developments, but waive the reporting requirements on those criteria that it feels are not relevant.

For the large-scale developers, both mayors agree, the impact of the ordinance will be one of rigorous review and much more information will be required.

In other business Tuesday night, the Regional Planning Board is likely to renew attorney William Miller's retainer contract.

Ben Yedlin will present for discussion only his proposal to construct four units of cluster-style housing at 647 Herrontown Road. R. Peter Hodge, operator of the Mather Funeral Home, will apply for conversion of a two-family house at 32 Vandeventer Avenue to multi-family use with four units. The three-story building, three doors away from the funeral home, has housed four families for a period of time.

Public Hearing on "Tight" Mercer County Budget Set for Tuesday

Mercer County's $41,708,000 budget will be up for public hearing next Tuesday, March 4, at 3, in Room 211 of the County Administration Building, 640 Broad Street in Trenton.

It's the time to tell Mercer County Freeholders how you feel about the budget. The county's rate this year is 93.86 cents, per $100 of assessed valuation, up nine-tenths of a cent from the 1974 budget.

Princeton Borough expects its own allocation of the county budget to be $1.61 per $100 of assessed valuation (an increase of 23 cents over last year), and Princeton Township is figuring on $1.09 per $100, up 13 cents from the current budget.

"I don't know how we could make it a tighter budget unless we reduce services," said Charles Farrington, Princeton lawyer who is a Mercer County Freeholder, in comments this week on the budget.

"We decided back in September we wouldn't have any new programs," Mr. Farrington continued, "but we do have a new alcoholism program with money that floats down to the county level from the National Institute of Mental Health. This is the first time we've been able to get involved on a county level."

Education Costs Cut. "We cut a quarter of a million from Mercer County Community College and $150,000 from vocational schools, we didn't increase our contribution to hospitals for care of the indigent. We aren't going to do any hiring after March 1."

The budget includes $1,000,000 in salary increases--slightly under 10 percent for the $11,000,000 county payroll for 1,300 to 1,400 people.

No clerical summer help will be hired, Mr. Farrington said, and there will be no lay-offs.

Revenues in the new budget are down about $4,000,000, but Mr Farrington said some of this represents one-shot programs, like state aid ($189,000) for Mercer County Community College that isn't going to be repeated.

Also, the budget lists only $1,500,000 in revenue sharing, compared to the present $2,390,000. The county is trying to use only one-half of Federal revenue sharing money in its operating budget, saving the rest for the capital budget. Also, Mr. Farrington said, "We don't want to get too used to receiving this; it would be a jolt when it stops."

It's the Law. About 70 percent of the budget is mandated, Mr Farrington estimated; that is, required by law and out of county control. He pointed to the judicial system, (including the prosecutor's office) welfare costs, and the whole correctional system. Within each category, he pointed out, supplies and salaries can be negotiated, but department heads, denied a request by the Freeholders, can go to an assignment judge and get what they want.

Although alcoholism is almost the only wholly-new program, the county has retained programs only one or two years old. The Heritage and Culture Commission, for example, will get about $2,500 more to add to its $30,000 Bicentennial program. Money will buy enough Mercer County flags for each county school. "It's not fair to appoint a group and encourage them, and then let them down," Mr. Farrington explained. "Usually cultural things are at the bottom of the totem pole."

The county also wants to continue the Rape Task Force, operated through the Mercer Street Friends Center. The Center itself also gets county funds. The state-mandated "JINS" program, which finds safe places for kids who are on the edge of a criminal life, will also be continued. The JINS contract with the YWCA, for care of girls costs $100,000.

"The state forces some of these things on us, but doesn't provide any money," Mr. Farrington commented.

Princeton's two mayors wrote the Freeholders pleading for a tight budget, and local officials have said that the county didn't work as hard as Princeton did to keep the budget down.

"If anyone can tell us how to make it tighter....!" Mr. Farrington exclaimed.

Public hearing is next Tuesday.

BIKE PATH IS SUBJECT Of Committee Discussion. Township Committee, which found itself embroiled in nearly two hours of arguments this past Monday on the subject of bike paths, is asking for more of the same at its meeting next Monday at 8.

The source of controversy this week was the proposed bike path extension along the Great Road and the property of John Winant. Mr. Winant's attorney, Thomas Jamieson, presented objections to the proposed route. A petition with 150 signatures urged Committee to give the issue further consideration before acting.

Nonetheless, Committee forged ahead, unanimously authorizing a $10,000 bond issue to acquire easements for a path along the Great Road.

Next Monday, Councilman Abbot Low Moffat will present a detailed study of the proposed and existing Princeton bike path network and seek community input on questions of priority and desirability. For the purposes of seeking funds from the U.S. Bureau of Outdoor Recreation, Mr. Moffat said, the bike planners have set a tentative list of priorities:

Great Road from Westerly to Stuart School; Mercer Street from the Battlefield Park to Lovers Lane; Mercer Street from Quaker Road to Parkside Drive; the Great Road from the old Great Road to Ridgeview Road; Lovers Lane from Marquand Park to Mercer Street; and the Great Road from Ridgeview to Cherry Valley, in that order.

Other Factors. Through informal discussions with the Federal authorities, Mr. Moffat said, the planners believe that these priorities have advantages. But other factors, including dangerous routes followed by children walking to school and plans to rebuild or widen existing roads, could change Township's thinking.

Citizens' thinking will be welcomed Monday night. A map of the bike network will be available for study.

Mr Moffat stressed that Committee "has no obligation to students walking to school along dangerous routes. On the other hand, there are those of us who feel that we should do what we can to provide safe

He has also directed for the Juilliard School of Drama, the Cincinnati Playhouse in the Park, the Indiana Repertory Theatre and the Goodman Theatre in Chicago. He is cofounder of the Lion Theatre Company, which recently completed its first season in New York.

Courtney Burr recently appeared in "The Children's Mass", in New York, and was with Hans Conried in "Not in the Book" and in Sal Mineo's production, "Fortune and Men's Eyes."

"Kingdom of Earth" will play through March 16 for ten performances.

HANCOCK

In Dillon Gym. A musician who played a Mozart concerto with the Chicago Symphony when he was 11 and wrote commercial jingles for Pillsbury, Chevrolet and Eastern Airlines some years later will appear in Dillon Gym this Friday. Neither Mozart nor Pillsbury is on the program.

He is Herbie Hancock, jazz pianist. His album, "Mwandishi," was the first to use electronics extensively, and he continued his pioneering with subsequent releases like "Sextant" and "Headhunters."

Hancock turned to jazz in high school when he was still stodying the classics. He formed a 17-piece concert band at Grinnell College, began to arrange and compose and finally changed his academic course from engineering to music. Grinnell gave him an

Spring Pops. Folksinger Doc Watson and his son Merle will visit Alexander Hall on Saturday, March 22, at 8 with the Watson band, "Frosty Morn." Tickets are on sale at McCarter.

But first, there's Jackson Browne, who will be in Dillon Gym on Friday, March 14, at 8 with his special guest, Phoebe Snow. The singer-songwriter has written for Linda Ronstadt, Brewer and Shipley, Tom Rush and The Byrds.

He's been in concert since his first album, "Jackson Browne," was released in 1971. Last winter, he went on a 40-city tour with Ronstadt, later joining Bonnie Raitt for a similar nationwide jonket.

UNCOMMON.....

Two Avant-Garde Plays. Two plays, each described as "strange and wonderful," will be on the stage of Morray Theatre next weekend under the sponsorship of Theatre Intime.

"The Puppet Show," by Alexander Blok, has a group of characters from the "real" world clashing with the Pierrot-Columbine-Harlequin triangle of classic lovers. There is a surprise ending, Intime promises.

"Ubu the Cockold," the second play, is part of Alfred Jarry's trilogy about Ubu. In this one, most of contemporary society----including academia-----feels the bite of Jarry's satire.

The two plays will be performed Thursday, Friday and Saturday, March 6, 7 and 8 at 8:30 and Sunday, March 9 at 2:30 and 8 p.m.

"PATIENCE" IS REVIVED

By Stuart Drama Club. "Patience, a gentle yet trenchant satire on the "aesthetic" craze of the 1880's, will be presented next Friday and Saturday, March 7 and 8, at 8 by the Stuart Drama Club and Glee Club in the Stuart Little Theatre. The play is one of the most frequently revived Gilbert & Sullivan operettas, second only to "The Mikado" and "Pinatore."

The play was the first production performed in the new Savoy Theater in London in 1881, and, in spite of the passage of years, false aestheticism has remained a subject of social satire. The aesthetic movement was led at that time by Oscar Wilde and the related romantic fad was led by the poet, Algernon Swinburne. The play was an unqualified success, as the delightful lyrics and melodies continue to demonstrate.

The full cast includes: Patience, Katie Clarke; Lady Angela, Alyson Flournoy; Lady Saphir, Missy Baggift; Lady Ella, Michele Nicastro; Lady Jane, Donna Weir; Archibald Grosvenor - an idyllic poet, Gerald Custer; Reginald Bunthorne - a fleshy poet, Ken Black; Colonel Calverley, Dave Christoffersen; Major Murgatroyd, Richie Gonzalez with a full complement of Rapturous Maidens and Officers of Royal Dragoon Guards sung and played by recruits from Lawrenceville, PHS and Westminster Choir College.

CHILDREN'S PLAY SET

Saturday Afternoon. The Johnson Park School P.T.O. will sponsor a performance of the Pennington Players' annoal children's theatre production on Saturday. The performance of "The Botterfly That Blushed" by Joseph Golden will be given at John Witherspoon School at 2:30.

The play is a story of some butterflies, fresh from their cocoons, which tomble onto the stage. They fly onto flowers as they try out their new wings——among them, one oddly-shaped and discolored. The theme of the play is provided by this little misfit attempting to become as beautiful as his fellow butterflies.

The Johnson Park School P.T.O. invites all interested children to the play. Tickets are $1 for children and $1.25 for adults and are on sale at Allen's on Nassau Street and at the Johnson Park School office. Tickets will also be available at the door.

In W. Windsor Production. Uproariousness will be the main theme as a cast of high school students presents "The Mouse That Roared" Friday and Saturday at 8 in the West Windsor-Plainsboro High School theater. This erstwhile, favorite will be directed by Mrs. Jody Williams, assisted by Mrs. Carolyn Magee.

The play concerns a small country in Europe, Grand Fenwick, whose only source of income is the sale of its world-famous wine. When some California wine-growers produce a cheap imitation of their pinot, the Fenwickians declare war on the United States. The results are usually hilariously funny.

Tickets, on sale at the high school, are $1 for students and $1.50 for adults.

Pharmacy Footnotes

by Mel Atlas, Reg. Pharm

Many people understand too little about vitamins and minerals. Fortunately, it is not necessary for each individual to be an authority on nutritive values. Needless to say, however, it is necessary for each individual to know about the basic food groups, and to eat some food from each group every day. The body needs fuel, vitamins and minerals to keep it in the best possible condition. Food not only provides energy, but it supplies the basic materials for the building of new tissues.

Members of the trio are John Burkhalter, soprano and alter recorders; William Darst, baroque violin and baritone soloist; and Donovan Klotzbeacher, harpsichord. Their repertoire is devoted to the music of the 17th and 18th centuries and they peform on authentic instruments of the period.

Included in their program will be a group of German songs by Heinrich Albert (1604-1651); a Canzona, "La Bentrovata," by Adam Jarzebski (1599-1649); "Ballo detto l'Fride" (1618), by Lorenzo Allegri; and an aria from Frescobaldi's infrequently done "Arie Musical" of 1630.

The Trio is named after Jacques Martin Hotteterre, flute and recorder virtuoso and instrument-maker at Versailles in the reigns of Louis XIV and XV, and author of the first "lesson book" for the then new transverse flute. The concert is free and open to the public.

☆ info.76 BICENTENNIAL NEWS

By THE TOWN CRIER
Box 1976, Princeton, N.J. 08540

The original Nassau Inn was located at 52 Nassau Street directly across from the college campus. It was built in 1756 by Judge Thomas Leonard, who moved there from his beautiful country place, Mansgrove, on Mt. Lucas Road (now fronting on Terhune Road and Turner Court). He wanted to spend his last years in view of the college he had helped to bring to Princeton.

When Judge Leonard died in 1769, his elegant town residence became a "hostelry," called by its new owner, "College Inn."

The first proprietor was Christopher Beekman whose natural talent as an inn-keeper soon developed the Inn into the center of the town's life.

Wine and argument flowed freely, for these were times when townsmen and students awaited eagerly the news and opinions set forth by travelers. Paul Revere, Robert Morris and Thomas Paine stayed the night more than once.

In 1775 the Committee of Safety met at College Inn. Delegates on the way to the first Continental Congress in Philadelphia, signers of the Declaration of Independence, all passed through Princeton and rested here in 1776.

The Madrigal Singers will sing selections by Thomas Morley and Elliott Pilshaw. Admission is free and the public is invited.

OPERA SCHEDULED

For Mid-March. Benjamin Britten's two-act opera, "The Rape of Lucretia," will be presented by the Princeton University Opera Theatre in a fully-staged production in Murray-Dodge Theatre with three performances on March 20, 21 and 22.

The opera, first performed at Glyndebourne in 1946, is written for four male and four female voices and orchestra. In the original cast, Peter Pears sang the role of the "Male Chorus" and Kathleen Ferrier was Lucretia, with Ernest Ansermet conducting.

The Princeton production will feature Judith Nicosia as Lucretia; Sharon Alexander as Lucretia's maid, Elizabeth Goida as Bianca, Lucretia's nurse; Robert Oliver as Collatinus, a Roman general, Lucretia's husband; Lawrence Weller as Prince Tarquinius and Keith Wagner as Junius. The role of "Female Chorus" will be sung by Bethany Beardslee; "Male Chorus" will be Lance Vining.

Members of the Princeton University Orchestra will play and the production will be under the musical direction of Mordechai Sheineman, conductor of the Princeton University Orchestra for the last two years. Peter Westergaard, director of two previous Opera Theatre productions, will be stage director.

Tickets for each performance are $4 (students, $2), available at the Concert Office, Music Department (924-0453) or at the Intime Theatre box office (452-8181). For mail orders, make checks payable to: Princeton University Opera Theatre, and send with a stamped, self-addressed envelope to: Concert Office, Music Department, Princeton University.

musical selections in his Rider College debut Saturday.

Appearing in the Fine Arts Theatre at 8:30 as part of the Concert Nine Series, the Spanish artist will perform a variety of his own arrangements and original compositions based on the Spanish gypsy tradition.

Born in Madrid, he was the first Flamenco guitarist ever to display his artistry in a solo concert. His debut as a concert artist was preceded by years of accompanying such distinguished dancers as La Argentina, Vicente Escudero and Argentinita.

Tickets to the performance may be reserved at the Rider Student Center Information Desk.

IT'S NEW To Us

NEW THINGS ADDED

To Clayton's on Nassau St. Two and a half years ago Clayton's found itself in need of additional space to expand its line of better dresses, and at that time opened its Nassau Street Store. Since then, better dresses has come to include Kimberly pantsuits, lots of accessories and with the approach of summer even some sportswear.

This small store has grown steadily and manager Connie Campbell has found dresses for most sizes and age groups. They range from daytime cottons to Diane Von Furstenberg evening dresses, with prices starting at about $45.

One of the prettiest dresses is a long-sleeved sheer wool in a pale, pale melon color. By Albert Nipon, it has a tucked bodice that ends at a slightly eased skirt, a buttoned front and a bowed neckline, $155.

We also liked Diane Von Furstenberg's sleeveless wrap dress with a collar and v-neckline. It comes in a comfortable green cotton knit covered with abstract white lines, $78.

Mrs. Campbell commented, "We are carrying more size 6's and even some 4's when we can find them. People seem more weight conscious than ever, and thus there is a demand for these sizes."

Here we noticed a green (or red) and white check two-piece dress with a flared skirt, t-shirt top and rope belt, by McMullen $70; and a pretty short-sleeved white dress with a few embroidered pink and green flowers, by Tannel Knits.

Shirtwaists Popular. Shirtwaists continue their popularity as they seem to fit everyone and go anywhere. Our favorite was a white cotton knit from Sporting Tailors with a small red and navy dachshund print, $42.

We also liked Tanner's long-sleeved Qiana one in a striped cream color with gold buttons; and in the custom or half sizes we chose McMullen's long-sleeved cotton voile with a bowed neckline in a brown or deep purple covered with a lollipop print, both $65.

POLYNESIAN GOWNS: This Chinese red dress with its floral print is one of the many gowns by Tori Richards of Honolulu. They are well priced and can be seen at Clayton's Nassau Street Store.

The Schrader Sportswear will shortly be moved from Clayton's main store to this location. However, the Nassau Street Store does not plan to carry separates, but instead will group several pieces to be sold as a unit. This is already the case with the Marisa Christina line where we saw a lovely pale blue skirt and sweater set with a hand crocheted look, $70.

The evening wear includes halters priced at about $70 which "go right out" according to Mrs. Campbell; parfait striped knit pajamas by Damon ("a great young line.") $120; and a pretty multi-colored floral dress with an attached capelet by Tori Richards of Honolulu, $70.

However, the many Diane Von Furstenberg gowns definitely steal the show. Our favorite is a simple sleeveless v-necked dress with a matching jacket and long scarf for your neck in a soft blue printed with snails (also in black with handsome butterflies). One of the nicest parts about these dresses, however, is that you can order most any of her prints in whichever style you like best.

We also saw mother-of-the-bride dresses, just covered up enough for church; all-weather coats including a new high fashion line by Count Romi; and plenty of accessories such as purses, jewelry and sweaters.

Tanner has an alpaca nylon sweater in gorgeous shades of green, yellow and pink--just right for picking up the colors from their print dresses, $42; and particularly noteworthy in the jewelry collection are the Miriam Haskell antique gold coins and chains, $12 and up.

With the return of the skirt, suits are once again in vogue, and Claytons has both the Spring Kensington collection (in both misses and custom sizes) and many handsome Kimberly ones, some with pants.

Clayton's Nassau Street Store is at 46 Nassau Street and its hours are from 9 to 5 Monday through Saturday.

USEFUL ITEMS ABOUND

At Lucar's. Certain stores are always fun to enter as you never know what useful item you'll find tucked away on a shelf or around the next corner. To us, hardware stores with their incredible variety fall into this category.

Anyone who has ever painted a room, changed a light switch, or decided to create a beautiful lawn -- especially the first timers -- know how valuable a good hardware store can be. As we listened to the questions and helpful answers, it was obvious that Lucar Hardware is such a store.

Besides the Cook and Dunn paint, which is currently on sale until March 1 (one-coat no-drip latex is $7.25 a gallon, usually $10.25), we noticed several decorative accents to brighten a room. The room darkener shades now come in a floral pattern with three color choices, solids, and five different stripes, as well as the traditional white, approximately $6 and up for the colors.

Lucar appears to have one of the largest selections of Contact paper we have ever seen, and we learned that the new rolls have a better glue, making it possible to readjust the position once you have begun to apply it. The total changeover, however, will probably take some time.

The patterns now include a stained glass one, blue and white Dutch tiles, a basket weave and a pretty yellow and white gingham with small red apples, 59 cents a yard. In addition there is a red, green or gold flocked paper for a more formal touch, $1.29 a yard.

Of course, there is an excellent selection of cooking equipment ranging from a cookie gun which helps make eight different home-made cookies to a huge 20-inch Trail Boss skillet which can scramble six dozen eggs. It includes recipes and is perfect for a party brunch or pancake breakfast, $20.30.

The Corning products are fully represented here. There are pyrex pie plates, canisters with wood-like or Spice of Life tops, Corelle dinnerware, and a new Electromatic percolator that lets you watch the coffee perk along, 69 cents to $12.99.

Many people still love the old cast iron pots, and nothing cooks quite like them. Also, in addition to the heavy skillets and casseroles, the novelties are always fun. For instance, Lucar has a corn bread skillet that turns out eight crusty wedges, $3.19.

You need only to walk outside and take a deep breath to know that spring is not far off. Lucar's new seeds are in and to get a head start there are Jiffy peat pots (12 for 69 cents) and an electric soil heating cable that helps the seeds germinate quicker, $3.95 and up.

No matter what your particular lawn problem, Scotts is sure to have a product. For instance, just looking at the grass seed, you can choose Picture, Quick Cover, Play, Family or some for bare spots. And don't forget when it comes to seed, deep watering is essential. So measure the amount with a rain gauge, $2.29.

Each year more and more people turn to biking and camping, all part of today's emphasis on the outdoor life. As a result Lucar has started a small bike section where we saw tire tubes, a combination horn and light, reflectors, an emergency tool kit and a mileage meter, $1.99 to $5.49.

There is also a cycle carrier for your car, $29.95; a Bernzomatic two-burner propane stove, $33.50; and lots of thermoses -- some without glass and even an all stainless steel one guaranteed never to break, $1.39 to $27.95.

In spite of the extras, the real backbone of any hardware store is still the seemingly infinite collection of nuts, washers, tools and so on. We especially noticed some excellent locks, such as one for securing the sash opening of a window, $3.60.

There is a complete line of Stanley tools, including such items as a mitre and corner clasp (perfect for do-it-yourself framers), $4.15, and a screw starter for both phillips and regular heads, $3.10. In addition, we saw Crescent pliers, lots of power tools, and S & K wrenches, many packed in money-saving sets.

Lucar Hardware, located in Princeton Junction on the Princeton-Hightstown Road, has lots of easy parking and is open Monday through Friday from 8 until 6 with Thursday and Friday evening hours until 7. Saturday the hours are from 8 until 5.

walking conditions."

One way, he pointed out, would be the construction of bicycle paths and walkways along the most hazardous stretches of road. "We might want to reconsider our priorities in this light," he said.

'Built a Batch.' Mr. Moffat's personal desire is to move ahead full steam on the project. "We should do a batch of them quickly," he said. "We could pay for them over a 10 or 15-year period. It would provide employment, something we need right now, and stimulate business.

"And prices are coming down right now. The bigger the project is, the more bids will come in and that will work to our advantage."

The discussion Monday night never went far beyond the 900 feet of bike path that is projected to run along Mr. Winant's property. His attorney presented an alternate route proposed by Mr. Winant, who has offered to donate the easement to it.

But, said Councilman Moffat, "it's not a feasible route." Also, Committee indicated that it wanted to move quickly on the matter because federal officials require the Township to be ready to acquire the land as soon as the project is approved. Township hopes that the government will absorb half the costs of the Great Road path, now estimated at $70,000.

SPEEDERS FINED

In Borough Court. Speeders fined Monday by Judge Philip Carchman in Borough traffic court are Anne D. Reeves, 28 Olden Lane, $36; Elbert Luallen, 28 Green Street, $18; Stephen D. Hoehle, 240 Mt. Lucas Road, $17; Marianne Donath, 40 Balcourt Drive, $16; and Terry W. Adams, Oakdale Village, $15.

Failing to have a name on a commercial vehicle cost Carol Clevenger, Hollow Road, Skillman, $15.

In criminal court last week, Sport & Specialists, an automotive repair firm in Trenton, was fined $15 for distributing handbills without first obtaining a permit in violation of a Borough ordinance. It pleaded guilty.

Douglas Stuart, Featherbed Lane, Hopewell, pleaded not guilty to a charge of malicious damage and was upheld.

Township Court. In Township traffic court last week, Judge Carchman fined Phillip T. Allshouse, Prettybrook Road, $60 and revoked his license for six months for driving while impaired by alcohol.

John D. Lesher, 108 Hun Road, paid $25 and lost his license for 30 days for careless driving. Roger F. Jodon, Dey Road, Cranbury, paid $30 for the same offense, while a stop-sign violation cost Elizabeth Meyer, 113 Darrow Road, Pennington, $25.

Among four speeders was Daniel T. Gilstorf, 17 Fisher Avenue, who was fined $29 on one offense and who paid another $15 for speeding 40 in a 15-mile zone in the Princeton Shopping Center.

Euell Decision Opposed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

We wish to bring to the attention of your readers the fact that, as a result of an ad hoc meeting of John Witherspoon staff on Wednesday, February 19, a poll was conducted among all instructional and office staff regarding their agreement or disagreement with the following statement: We, of the Middle School staff, alarmed and astounded by the Board's decision to refuse tenure to Ms. Virginia Euell, wish to reaffirm our confidence in her principalship and our appreciation of her leadership.

Of 74 staff members responding, 41, a majority, agreed; 21 disagreed; 12 abstained.

At a subsequent meeting on Thursday, February 20, disappointment was reiterated that the Board decision was made, not only contrary to administrative recommendation, but without consultation with John Witherspoon staff members regarding their experience under the leadership of Ms. Euell.

The undersigned were therefore directed to inform the Board and the public of the extent of the support Virginia Euell enjoys among the staff. We were also directed (1) to invite Board candidates to speak with us on Tuesday, February 25, and (2) to request a meeting with the current Board.

We also urge citizens who believe, with us, that the Princeton Middle School, under Ms. Euell's leadership, is working intelligently at the complex task of providing sound education to a diverse population of students, to communicate their views to Board members and candidates.

Editor's Note: The letter is signed by Phil Cobb, Bill Hammer, Chet Harker, Peg Henning, Ray Hunt, Ann Johnston, Ruth Lotz, Elaine Solomon, Eudora Wright and Lois Young, members of the Steering Committee.

Economy, Not Racism.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Why are we prone to ignoring the issues? Why must we always attempt to take the easy way out? To categorize the February 18 tenure vote of the school board as racism is irresponsible and a cop-out.

It is irresponsible in that it does not face the issue of a tax-burdened community that has just found out that a good portion of our school taxes are loaded on the administrative side and not on the educational side.

It is a cop-out in that it does not face the issue of education, and by education I mean education of black and white. It does not face the issue of chaotic conditions in the Middle School where some children are receiving an education and other are not, regardless of color. It does not face the issue of families already overburdened with economic woes and taxes being forced to move their children from the public school system to private schools so they might receive an education.

The school board acted responsively and responsibly in taking the action they did. For one member of the board to label this racism and for the Superintendent of Schools to accept it as such demonstrates a lack of understanding of the issues on their part.

Are we spending too much on administration and not enough on education? The Middle School is in trouble in regard to curriculum and discipline. It makes no difference what the color of the principal, parents are unhappy to the point of removing their children. The issue is our children and their education, let us face it now.

NOTICE

Letters to TOWN TOPICS' "Mailbox" should be typed, doubled-spaced, signed and received for publication no later than Monday. No letter will be printed without a valid signature and address. Support School Budget.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

The cost of bread in Princeton has increased nearly 44 percent during the past year. A two-pound loaf that sold for 69 cents now sells for 99 cents.

After taking "a long, hard look" at the Budget, our School Board is recommending an increase of about 2½ percent in the cost of public education. By contrast with the rise in the cost of bread, their recommendation seems most economical.

While Princeton cannot live without bread, it also needs an educated citizenry. So, on March 4, let us gratefully vote YES for the School Budget and the coming generation.

Robin Wallack Backed.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

. . I sincerely hope that the fact that Ms. Robin Wallack is running unopposed for the Borough seat on the Princeton Regional School Board will not cause the electorate to become apathetic about the election or her candidacy.

Ms. Wallack is a very qualified and interested candidate who, I feel, would make a valuable contribution to the Board and our community. Her candidacy warrants the enthusiastic support of the voters of the Borough of Princeton.

I thus would like to take this opportunity to urge everyone to participate in this campaign and to vote on Tuesday, March 4, 1975.

Trotman's Race a Factor
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Following is the text of a letter we have written to Harry Volweider, President of Springdale Golf Club:

We note with concern your decision to refuse membership in your club to Mr. Marvin Trotman.

We do not know, of course, the details of the thinking that went into your decision but it seems odd to us that you have rejected the application of the first black asking membership. It may be that you have good and sufficient reasons for your action other than race but failing such explanation, it is a fair inference that race was a factor.

Rather than a long drawn out proceeding in the Civil Rights Division we would urge you to reconsider your decision.

We would be pleased to provide whatever aid seems appropriate to help resolve this matter amicably and to the satisfaction of all concerned.

Library Needs Support
To the Editor of Town Topics:

At a time when the economic recession and scarcity of money make added demands on already existing desires for fiscal responsibility and budget-trimming, we should all bear witness to those items in the municipal budget that reflect our personal value priorities.

holds as high a priority as any municipal function, including health. Our library is run by a small, modestly paid, and dedicated staff who are people-oriented and possess professional expertise. They know how to direct without being directive--how to preserve the sense of puzzlement found in the questions asked by countless folk who come seeking assistance.

The Public Library is truly that-public. It is the best example I know of a truly democratic organization in Princeton. It provides programs for senior citizens such as book and poetry readings as well as special programs for a diversity of groups.

There is a consumer's corner, a fine grouping of materials for financial research, and one of the best periodical sections for a town Princeton's size. The collection of books shows careful and professional selection as well as competent processing. One can actually obtain "best sellers" while they are still current!

In short, the Princeton Public Library adds immeasurably to the quality of life here and in its workings one can find evidence of equality, humanity, compassion--as well as expertise. In today's world, these are the real survival values.

To the Editor of Town Topics:

A story carried by you last week indicated that there would be a charge for admission to my presentation at the "Y" this Thursday evening. The information supplied to you was in error, as it is not my custom to charge my friends and neighbors to talk with me.

There will be no charge, and I look forward to a free and lively conversation about the impact of television on our lives.

Ideas Can Be Overnourished.
To the Editor of Town Topics:

Your move to reprint some of the comments of Harlan Cleveland's about so-called "open meetings" (TOWN TOPICS, Feb. 13) was wise as well as timely. I agree with all he had to say in the original article as it appeared in "University" quarterly.

I have attended municipal meetings in a variety of communities (mostly as a reporter) since 1948 and contend that I've attended more Princeton meetings than anyone other than your own Assistant to the Editor, Katharine (Kay) H. Bretnall. Needless to say, perhaps, she and I have not always completely agreed as to what we thought we heard or saw at dozens of these sessions, both "open" and "closed"

The current teapot tempest is being raged as it generally is in Princeton by a loser, someone who seeks to validate his repeated arguments even after he has been told: "No!" Not every pugnacious "fool" can expect to become the "hero" of a lost cause even in Princeton, New Jersey, U.S.A.

As Mr. Cleveland indicates: "If the statesmen involved had consulted widely before launching them (ideas), some or all of these great ideas might well have died in the womb. Too many people, in Washington and abroad would have said, 'Let's study it some more.' " One needs only to insert words like "volunteer officials" for "statesmen" and "Princeton Borough and Township" to replace "Washington" to make the comment apply locally.

HOME IS LOOTED

On Scott Lane. A home on Scott Lane that had been vacant for 11 days was entered and looted last week of articles with a combined value of $2435.

Among the items taken were a stereo receiver, cameo pin, two rings, one with diamonds and rubies valued at $1,000, a 10-speed bicycle and $35 in coins. There were no signs of forced entry but police report the person responsible for checking the house found a rear door open.

Shoe Store Entered. Nassau Shoe Repair, 180 Nassau Street, was entered last week by a thief who removed $40 from a register. He broke a pane of glass in a door to enter.

The theft was reported Saturday morning.

YOUTH IS CHARGED

With Marijuana Possession. An 18-year old Haworth youth and six juveniles--all from outside the Princeton area--were arrested last week by Township police inside a van truck parked at the foot of Edgerstoune Road.

Marc Roessler was charged by Det. Sgt. Norman Servis with being under the influence of and possession of a controlled dangerous substance (marijuana). He was issued a complaint summons and released in his own recognizance, pending a court appearance March 19.

The six juveniles were turned over to Township juvenile officer Anthony Pinelli for processing.

On S. Harrison Street. A car driven by Laurietta A. Wittman, 20, of Somerville, skidded coming out of a turn late Sunday night and struck a wooden bridge on S. Harrison Street near Lake Lane.

The impact forced her car to spin around, causing it to strike and damage 16 feet of guard rail. The driver was treated at Princeton Medical Center for minor injuries. There were no charges by Ptl. Peter Savalli.

There was minor smoke damage from a smoldering mattress that had been stored in a garage. Police report there had been some soldering earlier in the garage and they added that some hot solder may have fallen on the mattress. It did not burst into flames.

Inflation Fighter

A man bought $18 worth of groceries Friday at the Acme in the Princeton Shopping Center, paid for them with two ten-dollar bills and left.

It was only then that the clerk noticed that one of the bills contained a picture of George Washington. A closer examination revealed, police said, that the four corners had been cut cleanly with a sharp instrument and an "O" pasted in next to the "1". It was described as "a very neat job" in the report by Ptl. Anthony Gaylord.

The bill passer was described as in his early 20s, 6-0, 175, with long brown hair, an unkempt full beard, wearing a green jacket and blue ski cap with a white stripe. All stores in the area were alerted.

PRINCETON TOWNSHIP
SCHOOL BOARD CANDIDATE

asks:

MR. SUPERINTENDENT:

WHAT ARE WE GETTING FOR OUR SCHOOL TAX DOLLARS?

Here's What:

- Lack of commitment to quality education for children at all levels.
- Lack of candor and openness on your part.
- Political battles between Board and Administration.
- No accountability for appointments and performance.
- Unwillingness to accept constructive criticism.
- Over-inflated administration costs.
- Exodus of students to other schools.
- Demoralized staff.
- Infuriated parents.
- Lack of stability in the entire system.

IS THIS ANY WAY TO SPEND OUR MONEY AND EDUCATE OUR CHILDREN?

JOHN DOAR HONORED

For Distinguished Service. John Doar, who graduated from Princeton in 1944, has received the University's most distinguished alumni award, the Woodrow Wilson Prize.

Given annually to a Princetonian who distinguishes himself "in the nation's service," the award was presented to the 53-year-old former Special Counsel of the U.S. House of Representatives' Judiciary Committee's impeachment investigation by Princeton President William G. Bowen at a luncheon in Jadwin Gymnasium Saturday before some 1,000 alumni and guests attending the 61st annual Midwinter Meeting of the Alumni Association.

President Bowen described Mr. Doar, who is a member of Princeton's Board of Trustees, as having "served this University, this nation, and the fundamental principles upon which both are based with exemplary courage and commitment."

Referring to Mr. Doar's role in the impeachment investigation, President Bowen said, "In this singular and unprecedented role he was at the very center of one of the most severe constitutional crises this country has ever endured; and, as no American needs to be told, he served in such a manner as to inspire confidence, trust, and faith in the Constitution of this country."

The phrase, "Princeton in the nation's service," was coined by Woodrow Wilson, the University's thirteenth president. In the broader sense in which Wilson used it, meaning service to the public welfare, it still serves as a goal for the University, its students and alumni. Previous Woodrow Wilson Award recipients include Senator Claiborne Pell of Rhode Island, Ralph Nader, John D. Rockefeller 3rd, former U.S. Attorney General, Nicholas DeB. Katzenbach and Adlai Stevenson, among others.

Mr. Doar is the 19th recipient of the Woodrow Wilson Award which carries a cash grant of $1,000 and was created by an anonymous gift in 1956, centennial year of Wilson's birth. The winner is chosen by a three-member selection committee which includes the president of the Princeton Alumni Association, Frederick L. Redpath, '39, of Montclair; the president of the Woodrow Wilson Foundation, Dr. Pendleton Herring, a Princeton resident; and Dean of the Woodrow Wilson School, Dr. Donald E. Stokes. The secretary is Thomas H. Wright, Secretary of the University.

Gifts Top $3 Million. Gifts to Princeton University's annual giving program among alumni, parents and friends have reached a total in excess of $3 million for the eighth consecutive year, according to an announcement made as the 25th annual campaign closed.

The program's chairman, Roby Harrington III, of the Class of 1951, said that the results were impressive in view of the state of the national economy.

Mr. Harrington, an executive vice-president of Young & Rubicam, New York-based advertising agency, praised the 2,000-odd volunteers who raise the unrestricted funds from their classmates and neighbors by letter, telephone call, or personal visit. He said particular compliments to the Classes of 1920, 1925, 1950 and 1970, all of which will hold major reunions on the Princeton campus in June, for the extraordinary amounts they raised.

HOSPITAL PRAISED

By Accreditation Commission. The Joint Commission on Accreditation of Hospitals (JCAH) has awarded the Princeton Medical Center its maximum approval--two-year accreditation.

The Joint Commission praised the Medical Center for maintaining standards deserving of accreditation and for its constant effort to improve the quality of patient care. Approval was based on the results of an on-site inspection and evaluation of the Medical Center's facilities and staff conducted last fall.

John W. Kauffman, Medical Center president, said the Medical Center's successful programs aimed at reducing health care costs to the public "undoubtedly contributed to the commission's favorable findings." The Medical Center is one of the first hospitals in New Jersey to have initiated a continuing medical audit, required of all hospitals by 1976.

The Commission included in its recommendations the need to renovate the obstetrics facilities and the operating room, as well as the Merwick Extended Care and Rehabilitation Unit.

ART In Princeton

APPEALING ART FORMS

At Squibb Gallery. The charm and pleasures to be found in both primitive and folk art are usually a result of the artist's untempered and untutored response to his subject. As the artistic response is altered by training, the results, although technically more sophisticated, must exchange their spontaniety for another, more carefully and deliberately constructed effect. Rarely will an artist be able to marry the master's skill with the primitives' intensity of expression.

The current exhibition at Squibb Gallery combines the best elements of both forms of artistic expression. The purity of response, usually restricted to the primitive, is clearly communicated while the highly-developed, trained artist's control over medium is there to be easily admired.

Louise Kruger's main statement is made in wood. After an apprenticeship with a Swedish shipbuilder, as a woodjoiner, she continued her training in Ghana and Italy. She finally settled in Maine, felling her trees from a nearby lumbermill and then working her wood, using a variety of practical, everyday tools.

Her life-sized creations are readily recognizable. She creates human and animal sculpture in a direct manner, treating both her subjects and her materials with great respect.

The resulting works express a benign wit in which the humor is fond and gentle. Each subject is simple-whether a farmer with antique rake, man in undershirt, hopping boy or life-sized mule, Kruger's response is personal, combining well-constructed artistic elements, charm and whimsey with the sense of power and mass that good sculpture always provides.

The same wit and creative style is expressed through another medium in Kruger's wall hangings. Larger-than-life fabric collages represent both the animate and the inanimate.

In each case, the selection of materials, the judicious use of stitchery and the artist's development of the subject all interact to create visually dynamic entertainment. She is equally comfortable using two dimensions and within this structure develops equal strength, charm and exhibition of fine, artistic craft.

ART IN WOOD FORM: Louise Kruger's menagerie at Squibb Gallery includes animals and people crafted in wood, fabric and stitchery.

At Firestone Library, "American Women: A Profile" is an exhibition that deserves to be evaluated from two points of view. It merits recognition for both its content and manner of display.

Although most of the material contained in the collection is literary and focuses around published material by and for women, the exhibition is a dynamic multi-media viewing experience. Using a combination of paintings, photographs, magazine art, prints, playbills and memorabilia of all sorts in combination with books creates a dynamic image of American women while providing a good range of viewing enjoyment.

Paintings by Georgia O'Keefe and Loren Melver, an etching by Mary Cassat and a collage by Louise Nevelson are among the works produced by women. Prints by Charles Dana Gibson, James Montgomery Flagg and Godeys Ladies' color plates offer interesting and entertaining views of women.

Leading female writers, dancers and actors are represented through photographs, playbills and other printed materials. Political works include writing by and representations of such varied women as Jane Adams, Amelia Bloomer, Lucy Stone and Susan B. Anthony.

At Gallery 100, The impact of color and form is demonstrated in the Nancy O'Conner collection at Gallery 100. This artist uses fragmented color as her expressive vehicle, refining it and developing it together with dynamic brushwork. Well formed compositions depict landscape, still life and carefully structured interior views.

Ventures into looser and more interpretive forms are as successful as earlier, more tightly-structured work. A uniformly pleasing blend of subject, successful use of space and color dynamics make this one of the more interesting collections on view in Princeton.

At Assemblee, The winter display features Americana with the accent on quilts.

Art in Princeton

Contemporary quilts worked in traditional patterns are included, as well as older pieces. They are accompanied by decorated woodwork and pottery from England and some American handcrafts.

At Apogee, Cartoon silk screens depict Ms. Frances and Friends in varying attitudes. An unusual collection of creatures who normally live in a comic strip are graphically recreated by D. and F. Moss in more than living color

A series of delicate etchings by Marvin Spahn provide visual contrast to the intense silk screen Well executed still life, flower studies and general subjects are represented in soft, pleasing color using fine line. Spahn demonstrates a poetic response to his subject, employing traditional printmaking techniques.

Family of Five, Master of Seven Instruments, Is Nominated as "Musical Family of the Year"

A Belle Mead family of five whose members are active in a myriad of school, community and church programs has been nominated for the American Music Conference's fifth annual "Amateur Musical Family of the Year" citation.

The Timothy D. Ellard family, Line Road, was cited in a national search as one of the outstanding representatives of the nation's 37 million amateur musicians.

Timothy, his wife, Pat, and their children, Marcia Ann, 14, Dan, 11, and Michael, 8, play trombone, banjo, guitar, piano, tuba, saxophone and recorder.

Mr. and Mrs. Ellard participate in a wide variety of community music programs. Together they have performed on guitar and banjo for folk masses at area churches. Currently, Mrs. Ellard is chairman of the music division of the Montgomery Township Women's Club and she has served as treasurer of the Princeton Folk Music Society.

Mr. Ellard plays trombone in the Somerset County Community Orchestra and various instruments in the Blawenberg Band, a non-profit musically active community group which performs for hospitals, rest homes, churches, and fund raising efforts. He was also the organizer of the Belle Mead Trombone Society.

Marcia plays tuba in the high school band and "Trombone Society" and clarinet in the high school orchestra. Dan plays saxophone in his sixth grade school band and both Mike and Dan have participated in many community activities as instrument toters and music holders.

Nightly Practice. The Ellard family members practice together nightly. They enjoy playing contemporary and folk music.

Although Ellard played trombone and piano in his school music groups, it was a self-instruction banjo program that re-kindled his interest in music. Mrs. Ellard's interest in playing an instrument was heightened when she received a guitar for a gift. She learned to play from a folk-guitar self-instruction course.

The school band program started Marcia on the clarinet. Since then, she has also learned to play the tuba.

Family togetherness and the common interest that music participation provides are some of the benefits the Ellards say they derive from family group practice sessions.

To qualify for the nomination, family members must be amateurs and must play at least four types of instruments. The Ellard family was nominated by Albert Westefeld of Princeton.

The American Music Conference is a non-profit education and research association dedicated to fostering a positive climate for amateur music in home, the church, the school and the community.

Announcement of the winning family will be made during National Music Week, May 4-11

BIOETHICS IS TOPIC Of Two-Day Conference. A Colloquium on Bioethics, "Man in Our Image," will bring together at Princeton University scientists, physicians, lawyers, theologians, and academics for a discussion of such topics as heredity-choosing, the nature of death and when people should die.

The colloquium will begin with a public lecture on Friday at 8 and continue Saturday from 9 to 4:30 at Whig Hall on the Princeton University campus. The public is invited free of charge to attend individual sessions or stay through the entire meeting.

Recent advances in biological and medical research have given rise to the new field of bioethics. Dr. Frank Seydel, Assistant Chaplin at Princeton's Wesley-Westminster Foundations, said, "Bioethics is not a futuristic subject. The present state of the art in medicine and biology is such," sayd Seydel, "That one bioethical quandary or another is confronted by most innidividuals during their lifetimes."

"There are no easy answers," Seydel notes, "and guidelines are yet to be established. The colloquium at Princeton," he adds, "will be the only full-scale conference on bioethics in recent years in which the general public may participate."

Colloquium sponsors are: Princeton's Wesley-Westminster Foundations, the Undergraduate Assembly, the Program in Science in Human Affairs, the Josiah Macy, Jr. Foundation the Program in History and Philosophy of Science, the Faculty Committee on Public Leetures, the Department of Religion, and the Whig-Cliosophic Society.

MONEY NEEDED To Sustain "Woman's Place." About "to shrivel up and blow away," The Woman's Place, 14½ Witherspoon Street, has sent out a plea for financial assistance, urging supporters to "send us any amount...quick, before we aren't there anymore to send it to."

Founded three years ago by Central New Jersey NOW, The Woman's Place was operated as a project of the Central New Jersey NOW chapter until last year, when it became independent. Income has come through fund-raising events and individual donations.

A feminist center, The Woman's Place provides information and referral services for woman. Last year, the Place referred over 50 women to professional counsellors, over 50 women to NOW task forces, about 30 women to the Rape Crisis Center or other counselling centers on rape, over 30 women to specific employment opportunities.

In addition, the Place offered information and help to about 20 women involved in divorce proceedings, referred ten women to clinics for abortion counselling and some half-dozen women to groups that could help in filing discrumination complaints.

Rent at 14½ Witherspoon is $105 a month, the telephone is $25. Staff is volunteer.

MEETING CANCELLED By Zoning Board. Because the chairman and vice-chairman will be unable to attend, the Borough Zoning Board has cancelled its scheduled Thursday meeting in Borough Hall.

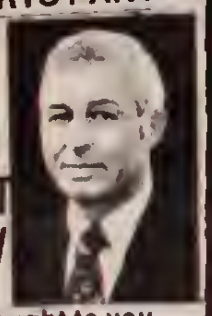
SPORTS FANS!

I BET YOU DIDN'T KNOW



Brought to you
By John Bernard

Here's quite an oddity that a sportswriter in another city has dug up. Outfielder Reggie Jackson got more than 3-million votes in the nation-wide balloting for the major league All-Star baseball game last season--which is more votes than George Washington, Thomas Jefferson, Ahraham Lincoln or any other man got in a U.S. Presidential election up till 1872...It wasn't until Ulysses Grant in 1872 that any U.S. President got more votes than Reggie Jackson did last year.

\+ + +

While everybody was aware that Hank Aaron set the all-time homerun record last season, hardly anyone noticed that Aaron set another significant record, too. Until last year, Ty Cobb held the record for playing in the most major league baseball games, 3033.. But Aaron passed that last season and has now played in 3076 big league games.. Thus Hank Aaron has now played in more major league games than anyone in history.

\+ + +

Oddly enough, two of the greatest contributors to the game of golf both had the same name--Robert T. Jones...Robert Tyre Jones, better known as Bobby, was one of the top golfers of all-time, and Robert Trent Jones is one of the top designers of all-time of golf courses.

Tiger Quintet Will Play Yale and Brown Here; NIT Bid May Develop If It Fails to Catch Penn

Can a Pennsylvania basketball team that comes within four points of being beaten by a Columbia quintet with a 4-19 record be upset by Brown on the final night of the season?

That's the question that will be haunting Princeton's second-place entry as it chases the Quakers down to the wire this weekend. First of all the Tigers must themselves trim the Bruins on Friday in Jadwin Gym, making certain there is no repetition of the 62-61 defeat they suffered at Providence a month ago. It was that setback which left them eating Penn's dust, after they had opened their Ivy season with a victory over the Quakers here in early January.

Brown, now 14-10 on the season, will go into the Palestra Saturday without the pressure that might have existed had it not lost by a point to Harvard on its own court last Friday. Had the Rhode Island quintet defeated Princeton here the night before it headed for Philadelphia, it would have had a shot at tieing the Quakers. Under the present circumstances, however, the Bruins can relax in their role of spoilers, with all the pressure on Penn.

Brown's defeats at the hands of Harvard and, earlier this winter, by Yale in overtime have marred what had been expected to be a bright season. The Bruins have a fine player in Phil Brown, a topflight center despite his 6-5 height, and a good back court pair in Eddie Morris and Lloyd Desvigne, but their thoughts that a veteran squad would improve on last year's good 17-9 mark have been stilled by inconsistency.

Phil Brown leads the Ivy League in field goal accuracy with a mark close to 60 percent and is also among the top five in rebounding and scoring. With Jim Flores out for the season with a fractured jaw, it will probably be the capable Barnes Hauptfuhrer who will guard the Bruin captain.

Yale, slogging through another of the mediocre seasons that have plagued Eli basketball for nearly a decade, is about to finish in the league cellar. The Blue has won only three of 21 games, but is at least performing better than the hockey team at New Haven, which has a lone triumph among the 21 contests it has played. Rising far above the mire of defeat (in the past fortnight, Princeton has won from the Elis in hockey, track, squash, swimming and wrestling) is the Yale football team, which annually finished among the Ivy leaders and hasn't lost to Princeton in nearly a decade.

Easy Road Triumphs. It took Princeton a bit of time to break away from Columbia at New York Friday night, the Tigers holding nothing better than a one-point margin before Pete Carril decided to go with Hauptfuhrer and four players who have served principally as guards (Co-Captains Mickey Steurer and Armond Hill, Tim Van Blommesteyn and Brien O'Neill).

O'Neill came in for Lon Ramati, who had been a flu victim earlier in the week, and was a factor in the Tigers' surge to a 35-28 half-time margin. When play resumed, it was Hill who took almost complete charge.

Providing 14 of the first 18 points the Orange and Black made in the second half, Hill led the victors to a 24-10 surge that pushed them to a 59-38 lead. By the time the clock had run out, it was a 78-60 final for Princeton's eighth in a row over the New Yorkers.

Hill led all players with 22, his top performance of the season. Hauptfuhrer and Blommesteyn both had 18 and Steuerer made it four in double figures with 13.

At Ithaca, the Tigers went better than three minutes before getting their first field goal. That was credited to Van Blommesteyn, who went on to sink 10 of 12 in the first half, his total at the intermission coming within three of the entire home team.

From a 41-23 advantage, the Tigers rolled to a 60-29 margin six minutes into the second period, settling for an 80-53 triumph. Van Blommesteyn finished with 26, while Cornell's Maynard Brown, who averages better than 23 against the rest of the league, was held to 11 by Hauptfuhrer—two more than he made here earlier this month.

It's been eight years (16 games ago) since Cornell last defeated Princeton in basketball. Oddly, that was one of just three the Tigers lost that season (1966-67), when they compiled a scintillating 25-3 mark in Butch van Breda Kolff's last year here.

Chances of Penn's losing to brown Saturday are minimal, partially because the Bruins have had season-long problems despite their unusual degree of experience, and even more so because the Quakers' Ron Haigler is a take-charge player who is likely to keep his team on track. Should Penn triumph, it would make five Ivy titles in a row for the Red and Blue.

A playoff next week on a neutral court (hard to find for this particular pairing) would follow in the event of a tie. More likely is the Tigers' entry in the National Invitation Tournament in Madison Square Garden, where they will receive consideration as the runner-up in the Ivy League. (For the result of Tuesday night's games against Virginia in Charlottesville, see page 30)

SEASON NEARS END

For Tiger Hockey Team. Unable to match last year's vastly improved showing, when it won as many as nine games for the first time since 1968, the Princeton hockey team will conclude its season Saturday at 7:30 against Boston College. The Eagles are nowhere near as strong as they have been in the past with a season's average well below .500 and, like the Orange and Black, will not qualify for the regional playoffs that start next week.

Princeton's last two defeats were marked by sporadic bursts of fine hockey but also by inability to play a good third period--a weakness that cost the Tigers victories over Yale, RPI and Brown, all of which it led with less than 20 minutes to go. Yale and RPI drew even after trailing by two goals and stayed there throughout the overtime session; Brown changed a 3-2 deficit into a 4-3 victory last week in the space of less than three minutes.

Friday night in Baker Rink, the Orange and Black took a 2-0 lead over New Hampshire, fifth-ranked team in the east, but saw the visitors score the next three. All came on long shots which goalie Robin Rollefstad could not handle.

Early into the final round, Kris Kollevoll brought the home team even, but the deadlock did not last long. New Hampshire scored four more times in the last 10 minutes to make it a 7-3 final.

Cornell's unpredictable skaters, 8-2 victims of Harvard earlier in the week and losers also this winter to Brown and Penn, opened the game here Saturday with one of the most prolific attacks in memory. At the end of five and a half minutes, they had five goals, Princeton had one, and the Tigers were virtually shell-shocked.

It was greatly to their credit

Tigers Top Penn to Take Ivy Wrestling Title; NCAA Meet to Draw 8,000 to Jadwin in March

Princeton's wrestling team will be largely overmatched when the NCAA Championships are staged in Jadwin Gym for the first time (March 13-15), but the Tigers will enter the tournament content with the knowledge that they are best in their class.

At Philadelphia Saturday afternoon, Coach Johnny Johnston's team smothered Pennsylvania, 26 to 11, thereby completing its Ivy League season unbeaten. For Johnston, it was the sixth first-place finish in 11 years. Overall, the Tigers are 14-4.

Although the Tigers' strength this winter has been in the lower weights, they trailed, 9-8, after the first five bouts. In the next five, Penn earned but a single draw.

Two Princeton wrestlers who had previously been unbeaten in Ivy action, 118-lb. Kevin Roesch and 150-lb. Jay Stuart, were among Saturday's losers. To Johnston, it was further proof of balance, because his team won the Ivy title without a single unbeaten team member.

Sellout Looms. While tickets are still available, there is little doubt there will be none left by the time the first round of the NCAA Tournament begins in Jadwin the afternoon of Thursday, March 12. Upwards of 8,000 seats—with the addition of temporary bleachers—will be provided, and most of them have been bought already.

Wrestlers will be in action twice daily—starting at 12:30 and 7:30 Thursday, Friday and Saturday. At the outset, 10 mats will be in use simultaneously.

Teams from the Big Eight are expected to dominate the scoring. Iowa State, the defending champion, has won in four of the last six years, with Oklahoma State the victor in 1971. Other strong entries from this conference will come from Oklahoma and Nebraska.

Top teams from this section of the country will be Lehigh, Penn State and Navy. The midshipmen hold a 30-to-6 decision over Ivy champion Princeton.

The final Ivy Standings:

that they battled back, holding the Red to just one more through the end of the second period while adding four of their own. After Jim Damberger got the Tigers' first goal in the opening period, sophomore defenseman Jay Quinby and wing Rick Friesz narrowed the Cornell margin to 6-3.

Dunc Fisher then kept Princeton's momentum going two minutes after the middle period began, and Mark Stuckey hit on a power-play goal to make it 6-5. After his early problems, sophomore goalie Mike O'Leary had settled down, aided largely by the fact that the numerous loose pucks in front of him in the first period were being given faster attention by his teammates.

The final round was, however, all Cornell. The Red's depth and greater speed made a visible difference all through the period, which saw three more scores credited to the visitors' total for a 9-5 final.

Paul Dionne's shoulder injury, which has benched him for the season, and a charleyhorse that slowed Damberger added to the defensive problems Princeton has experienced all winter. The two weekend games saw the Orange and Black yield 16 goals--seven of them in the final period.

The Tigers closed out their Ivy season Tuesday night against Penn at Philadelphia. See page 30 for the story and current league standings.

WRESTLERS END SEASON With A Victory. It's been a long season for Princeton High School wrestling coach Tom Murray; his worst, in fact, since he's been coaching the sport at PHS.

But it ended on an upbeat note Friday night for Murray and the Little Tigers, who defeated Lawrence High, 31-24 That, coupled with a 44-11 loss to Trenton two days earlier, left PHS with a 2-11 record. .

There were signs in the Lawrence match, however, that some of the untested wrestlers Murray has had to use this season have learned their trade. Their return and the addition of some promising freshmen like Matt Wilkinson, younger brother of Hank Wilkinson, a PHS standout a few years back, have cumbined to give Murray reason for optimism. "Overall," he said, "we should be a lot better next year."

District Matches Friday. The annual NJSIAA District 17 wrestling championship matches will get underway this Friday and Saturday at Hunterdon Central High School where Princeton High's best chances for a district crown lie with Dave Robinson, 122 pounder; Greg Robinson, Dave's older brother wrestling at 135; and Fred Eiker, 158.

Those who reach the championship round in the district matches will advance to the regionals to be held the following weekend. After a week's break to allow the NCAA wrestling championships to be held in Jadwin Gym, the state high school finals will follow.

Robinsons Get Pins. Against Lawrence, both Dave and Greg Robinson scored pins, each against standout Cardinal wrestlers. "Both wrestled really well," commented Murray. "Greg was probably my most outstanding wrestler all year," Murray continued. "Last year he had a hard time winning; this year he put it all together."

Also scoring a fall for PHS was sophomore Jim O'Grady in the 148-pound division. Eiker won a superior decision.

Others recording decisions for PHS over the home team were Luther McKeller (115 pounds); Peter Coffin (129), 4-0; and Paul Soderman (170), 5-0.

"Soderman's win was his best match of the year," said Murray. "He's come a long way; he'll be a good one next year." Until this season, Soderman had never wrestled before.

Forfeit Four Bouts. Earlier, opposite Trenton High, perhaps the most improved team in the county this year, PHS handed the Tornadoes 24 points by forfeiting the 108, 122, 141-pound and heavyweight matches.

Of the remaining 8 bouts, PHS won three by decision and tied one when Greg Robinson and Erwin Elsey battled to a 3-3 draw. Dave Wilson (115) won, 6-2; Coffin blanked Tim Downs, 5-0, and Adel Heiba (188) captured a 9-5 decision.

IT'S TOURNAMENT TIME

PHS Vs. Hillsborough. Barred from participating in the event two years ago, loser in the first round last year, 73-71, to Monmouth Regional despite a 32-point performance by Bobby King, the Princeton High School basketball team will be hoping for better results this week when it makes its debut in the 57th annual New Jersey State Interscholastic Athletic Association Basketball Tournament.

Princeton's first round opponent in the Group Two division is Hillsborough. The two schools will meet Monday afternoon at 4 at Hillsborough. If the Little Tigers triumph, they will next meet Red Hank Wednesday evening at 8 in Red Bank.

In regular season play, it has been a poor year for PHS on the court. But it has won four of its last seven and PHS coach Marvin Trotman agreed that his team is "coming together at a convenient time."

Asked if he were optimistic about the upcoming Hillsborough encounter, Trotman replied: "Well, I don't want to sound pessimistic. If we can play our type of game, I'm hopeful we can win."

Trotman reported that he did not get a chance to watch Hillsborough play until last week when he saw it get badly beaten by Montgomery. "Seeing a team for the first time doesn't tell you much," said Trotman, who added he plans to scout it again when they play South Brunswick Friday. The Vikings are a small but rugged defensive club and champion this year of the Delaware Valley League.

Hillsborough, Trotman said, is a patterned team on offense and uses a zone defense. It has a 6-4 center, but it is not a tall club otherwise.

Red Bank has an imposing 17-3 record (PHS is presently 5-9) but that, Trotman observed, "doesn't necessarily mean anything. You can't tell the competition they've been playing."

PHS will be led by its fine outside shooting guard, Daryl Marshall, and forward Pete Watson, team captain and fine rebounder. Both have failed to reach double figures on only three occasions this season. And the high--for both again--is 22.

Joining Marshall in the backcourt will be Roland Alexander, while sophomore Junior Oldham, who broke into starting lineup in mid-season, will join Watson at forward. Randy Bullock and Felix Brown are the others on the first team.

IC4A Track in Jadwin

The 54th annual IC4A Indoor Track and Field Championships, one of the finest meets of the indoor season, will be held at Jadwin Gymnasium on March 8-9.

A total of 56 colleges will be represented in the meet that includes competition in 17 events. Last year, Villanova won the team championship by one point over Manhattan and Seton Hall.

The Saturday program will consist of running event trials, quarter-finals and semi-finals, plus field event trials and finals. On Sunday, the meet will conclude with the finals in all running events.

For ticket information, call the University ticket office at 452-3538.

ST. GEORGE'S TRIUMPHS.

In PDS Hockey Tourney. Princeton Day School staged an exciting tournament of hockey last weekend, but wound up with an unconsoling fourth-place finish, as St. George's of Rhode Island skated to the team trophy. The Newport sextet nipped PDS on Friday, 5-4 in overtime, and thumped Lawrenceville on Saturday in the finals by 5-1.

The Panther skaters lost a consolation-game heart-breaker on Saturday to the Hill School, 2-1, even though they outshot their opponents, 35-20. Lawrenceville had beaten The Hill in the opening round, 4-3, to move into the finals against St. George's, last year's tourney runner-up. But there the Larries fell behind, 4-0, in the first session and didn't score until the final minutes of the game, before one of the largest hockey crowds in PDS history.

Coming off a convincing 7-1 thrashing of Wissahickon on Wednesday, PDS was very impressive against St. George's in rallying from 3-0 and 4-2 deficits to send the game into overtime. Its comeback was frustrated, though, in the final minute of the sudden-death overtime when, short-handed, the PDS skaters chased after a rebound from a thwarted breakaway attempt and were caught forward as St. George's rushed back on a successful 3-1 breakaway of its own. Tournament MVP John Collins scored the winning goal, his third of the game.

The Panther forwards had broken the shut-out on a Steve Judge slap-shot late in the second period. Then, shorthanded with 14 seconds left in the period, Jeb Burns converted a perfect pass from Mike White for a breakaway goal to narrow the visitors lead to 3-2.

All Tied Up. After a fourth opposition goal, Mark Zawadsky revived PDS hopes by slipping in a side-angle shot with 2:45 remaining. Next PDS pulled its goalie, as Bill McClellan dug the puck out of the corner, fed it to Judge, then over to Tom Moore for the tieing goal with 45 seconds left. But when Ralph Brown, who played an outstanding game, was called for tripping near the end of the overtime, a tired

PDS team saw its rally end.

The consolation game was slower-paced, with all the scoring confined to the third period. Again PDS was forced to come back from a 2-goal deficit, but Brown's tally off a Judge pass with two minutes left was not enough, even with six PDS skaters swarming around the rink.

Huston felt afterwards his team had outplayed the Hill, and was particularly disappointed that the game tipped the scales toward a 7-9 losing season.

In its final regular-season game, PDS walloped Wissahickon at home behind two goals apiece by Bill Erdman and Tom Moore. David O'Connor, Jeb Burns and Zawadsky added scores against a team coach Huston said "doesn't travel well."

PDS FIVE WINS BIG

In Possible Tourney Preview. In a packed PDS gym last Wednesday, the Princeton Day School basketball team rolled to a 65-51 victory over state tournament, first-seed Rutgers Prep (19-5) in a possible preview of this Saturday's Division B finals. Second-seeded PDS was scheduled to play Wardlaw Academy of Plainfield at Peddie on Wednesday, while Rutgers Prep was matched against Neumann Prep in the tournament semi-finals.

The finals will be a doubleheader on Saturday, featuring both prep championships. The games will be played at Peddie, unless Peddie reaches the Division A finals, in which case the contests will probably be held at the Hun School.

Frank Konstantynowicz (27 points) and Randy Melville (22 points) paced the red-hot Panthers to a decisive win over Rutgers Prep. PDS shot 43 percent (24 for 55), while holding its opponents 29 points under their season average.

Citing his team's 37-19 lead at the half, coach Alan Taback termed it "the best half of basketball we'd ever played", beginning with an eight-point skein after an initial Rutgers field goal. Billy Martin was a stand-out defensively, holding the visitors' 6'7" high scorer to six points in the first half, while contributing nine himself. Keith Thomas also sparked the defense with his constant harassment of the Rutgers playmaker.

Konstantynowicz sparkled with 10-for-15 shooting from the field and seven-for-eight from the line, in addition to five steals and six assists. And Melville added 14 rebour ls to his 22-point performance.

After such an important victory, it would have been easy for PDS to let down on Monday against Montclair Academy in a make-up game, but the Panthers stormed back from an early deficit to triumph, 79-53. The win wrapped up the PDS regular season at 15-5.

With his team down by one point at the quarter and up only six at the half, coach Taback commented, "we didn't get in gear until the second half." PDS ran off six in a row at that point, and finished up with the subs.

Bill Baggitt scored 21 points and grabbed 12 rebounds to pace the Panthers, followed by 18 points and 11 rebounds from Melville, and 17 points and seven assists from playmaker Konstantynowicz. Martin tacked on 13 points and 10 rebounds, as a well-rounded effort gave PDS confidence to face Wardlaw. In late January, PDS defeated Wardlaw, 62-55, at home.

DOGS TO COMPETE

In Obedience Trial Sunday. The Princeton Dog Training club will hold its 18th annual obedience trial Sunday from 9 to 5 at the Princeton Day School, with some 135 dogs of 42 different breeds competing for more than 70 trophies and prizes.

In addition to the regular classes, this year's trial will feature brace and team classes, two events that are rarely seen. In the brace class, a handler works with two matched dogs, while four dogs and four people work in unison in the team class competition.

Among the competing dogs will be a tiny Yorkshire Terrier, a giant Irish Wolfhound, a Soft-Coated Wheaten Terrier, a Curly-Coated Retriever, a Basenji and a Shi Tzu, plus familiar German Shepherds and Poodles. The two winners of last year's premiere trophies, a German Shepherd owned by Ed Hamm and a Golden Retriever owned by Russ Klipple, will both be competing again.

Lunch and refreshments will be available, and club members will be ready to answer the public's questions. Admission is $1 for adults and 50 cents for children, with children under 14 to have adult accompaniment.

HUN WINS 3 OF 4

But Loses League Bid. Although it won three of four and increased its record to 17-7, last week was not a good one for the Hun basketball team.

In its most recent start, Hun was upset by Perkiomen, Saturday, 62-53. The loss left Hun with a 9-2 record in the Penn-Jersey League and removed any final hope it had of tying rival Pennington School for the championship of the league's northern division. Pennington has an 11-0 league record.

As a result, Friday's meeting with Pennington has changed for Hun from a showdown to just another league game. It is the first time in three years that Hun has not won the divisional league crown.

Hun will end its regular season's schedule Wednesday afternoon away, meeting the Pennsylvania School for the Deaf

---

State Prep Tourney. This Wednesday afternoon at 3:45, Hun was scheduled to oppose Newark Academy at the Wardlaw School gym in Plainfield in the first round of the annual NJAIAA Class A Prep School basketball tournament. In the other bracket, Peddie will meet Lawrenceville at the same time in the Hun gym.

The winners will play Saturday for the Class A Prep School Championship. Hun has lost to Newark Academy by six points in an earlier meeting this year and last year lost to Lawrenceville in the championship game.

Hun coach Dave Leete reported that he hopes to have Tony Trani, the team captain and floor leader, back in the lineup for the Newark game. Trani has missed the last three games with a knee injury.

In addition to the 62-53 loss Saturday to Perkiomen, Hun, in a busy week, defeated Academy of New Church, 68-41, on Friday; Solebury, 75-53, last Wednesday, and Mitchell, 74-63, the previous day.

Leete reported that freshman Ron Payton played the most consistently in the four games. He averaged 17.5 for the four, his high a 23-point performance against Mitchell Prep. Terry McEwen added 17 against Mitchell while Nick Brady had 13 and Trani 12.

Sports in Princeton

Against Solebury, Mike Troyanovitch was second to Payton's 15 with 14 points–Brady had 12--while against Academy of New Church Brady was high with 18. Payton, 19 points, and Brady (10) were the only two in double figures in the lost to Perkiomen.

TIGERS TOP VIRGINIA

But Lose Their Coach. The often-maligned Ivy League met the highly-regarded Atlantic Coast Conference in basketball Tuesday night, with the Princeton Tigers upsetting Virginia at Charlottesville, 55 to 50. They did so despite three technical fouls called against Coach Pete Carril, whose emotional outburst resulting from foul calls against Armond Hill resulted in his ejection from the game.

Ability to run off a dozen unanswered points toward the end of the first half put Princeton in the cat bird's seat, as it left the floor at the intermission with a 31-21 lead. The Cavaliers battled back as soon as play resumed, cutting their deficit to four when the Orange and Black went almost four minutes without scoring.

Hill picked up his third foul in the early going and shortly thereafter, his fourth. Carril objected to strenuously to the latter call that when he continued to berate the officials, he drew successive technicals. The third required automatic removal from the bench, and and he watched the balance of the contest from a vantage post near an exit. Neither of the Tigers' assistants, Gary Walters or Bob Dukiet, made the trip, so the team followed its own strategy.

Virginia frequently narrowed the gap to four points, but a steady freeze and an adequate zone (with both Hill and Tim Van Blommesteyn carrying four personals) kept the home team from drawing even. Better foul shooting in the closing minutes would have made life simpler for Princeton, which saw its margin trimmed to 52-50 when it converted only two of a potential six free throws.

With 24 seconds left, however, Mickey Steurer converted one of two and then, after the losers had lost the ball for traveling, connected on two more. The triumph raised Princeton's record to 16-8, and an 18-8 finish, based on a pair of victories this weekend, would give it a solid shot at a place in the National Invitation Tournament next month.

SKATERS LOSE TO PENN

Tigers Beaten, 7-2. Down 3-0 with less than 15 minutes gone in the first period at Philadelphia Tuesday night, Princeton's hockey team scored a pair of goals against Penn in the final period to narrow the gap to 3-2. The Quakers then beat goalie Mike O'Leary four more times to make it a 7-2 final.

Defenseman Jay Quinby and center Gary O'Meara scored for the losers, who dropped both games to the Quakers in the season's series. With the Boston College contest left Saturday, the Tigers' record is 6-14-2.

PHS IS EASY WINNER

In Last Basketball Game. The Princeton High School basketball team saved its easiest game of the season for the last.

Tuesday afternoon against visiting Hightstown, a team it had to struggle with to win a 55-51 victory in its second game of the season, PHS was loose and toyed with the Rams in the final period before posting a 70-54 victory.

The win was the Little Tigers' most lopsided of the season, their third in a row--the first time they managed that all year--and their fifth in their last eight starts. The 72 points were the most by five that PHS has run up all season.

Before the Little Tigers managed to put it together, they won only one of their first seven, to finish with a 6-9 record. "We played well," said coach Marvin Trotman after the game.

"We ran well, we rebounded well and we moved the ball well--and we cut down on our fouls!" Randy Bullock, he added, "played a tremendous game...shooting, defensive rebounds...in all ways."

Bullock had 18 points in the first half--he finished with 18 for his season's high–as PHS outscored the Rams (8-12), 23-16, to take a 41-30 lead. Both teams suffered a lull in the third period but PHS opened up again in the fourth with 23 more points as Trotman began substituting with 5:48 left to play.

Joining Bullock in double figures for PHS were Junior Oldhamd (15), Pete Watson (12), Felix Brown (11) who had seven in the final period, and Daryl Marshall (10). John Martini, 14 points, and Ken Doyle, 10, reached double figures for the Rams, who simply could not keep up with the running Little Tigers.

PHS is as ready as it ever will be for the NJSIAA tournament.

TOURNAMENT HERE

Tigers Favored in Squash. Princeton University's undefeated squash team (10-0) will be favored to win the 1975 U.S. Intercollegiate Championship scheduled for Jadwin Gymnasium on Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

Last year, the Tigers finished third behind Pennsylvania and Harvard, respectively, but this season Princeton has defeated Penn (8-1) and Harvard (7-2).

Defending singles champion Juan De VillaFranca of Iberio Americana University in Mexico will return to defend his title. Other ranked players who will be challenging for the title are Ian Shaw of Western Ontario, Steve Hisey of Waterloo, Bill Andrews of Fordham, Joe Swain of Penn, Arif Sarfraz of Princeton and Peter Blasier of Harvard.

No admission will be charged for the three-day championship event.

TENNIS JUNIOR EXCELS

In Two Tournaments. Unseeded in a round of 64, Jay Lapidus of Galbreath Drive, one of New Jersey's top junior tennis players advanced to the quarter-finals of the Port Washington, New York, National Junior Tennis Tournament before losing.

At the same time, Lapidus and Scott Stoner of Trenton were competing in the Men's Mercer County Double Tournament as the number two seeded pair. In the semi-finals, they defeated Shawn Tully and Bryce Thompson of Princeton, 6-1, 6-2, and then vanquished the defending champions Marty Devlin and Ken Wilson from Trenton in the finals, 7-6, 6-2.

In the nationals, Jay advanced to the final eight without a loss before being eliminated in three sets by Jeff Bobbins, the number one seeded player in the tournament and ranked fifth in the country in the boys 16 age division. The tournament was run by Harry Hopman, well-known Australian coach.

TWO STILL UNBEATEN

In Adult Basketball. Bill Brown & Co. and Joint Effort went into the week undefeated in the Adult Basketball League. They were scheduled to meet this Wednesday night in the Princeton High School gym in the game that would determine the final occupant of first place.

Bill Brown won last week from a determined Librarian team, 57-52. The Librarians displayed great movement on offense and coupling this with fine shooting, played Bill Brown head to head for the duration of the game.

Few things worked well for the more talented Bill Brown team. Not only was its press ineffective for the majority of the game, but its offensive patterns against the Librarian 2-1-2 zone were not effective. What Bill Brown lost in these departments was made up in the final minutes by merely being in better shape. Although the Librarians led for most of the game, the defensive pressure employed by Bill Brown brought results early in the fourth period as it ran off nine unanswered points to establish a 47-40 lead.

The Librarians could not get any closer than 52-48 as Bill Brown's last-minute freeze proved effective. Dennis Wilson again led the Brown scoring attack with 21 points, Frank Scott contributed a consistent 18, while center Joe Brokaw chipped in with 12. The Librarians got a great performance from forward Chris Chambers who scored only 10 points, but was the pivotal man in many defensive plays and Librarians assists. Paul Dent shouldered most of the scoring burden for the Librarians by scoring 18.

Joint Effort warmed up for its confrontation with Bill Brown with a resounding 90-66 victory over playoff-bound Perks. With a strong bench present, Joint Effort never stopped full court pressure and led by over 30 points at one time. Perks, on the other hand, never gave up battling. Mark Baldwin survived incredible pressure to score 16 for Perks while David Neal and Steve Perone produced 12 and 10 points respectively.

Joint Effort placed five players in double figures as is usually the case. Standouts included Al Burton, who tallied 14 points and played solid defense; Doug Battle, who led all scorers with 18, mostly on inside muscle, and John Madden, whose defense was remarkable.

Perks continued to drive for the fourth place play-off spot by defeating the Triggers, 75-33. Jeff Sturm (17), Rob Staats (15), Mark Baldwin (13) and Ken Cromer (11) led the Perks scoring attack, while Peter Sears and Denny Reigle led Triggers with 14 and 10 points.

Ivy Inn kept its playoff hopes alive by defeating third place Lyons Seafood, 92-89, in overtime. Although Lyons jumped to an early lead by running the ball effectively, the game soon became a shootout and the lead changed hands over a dozen times.

Milt Gaylord's jump shot tied the game for Lyons with 16 seconds remaining and as the game went into overtime, the pattern did not change. Lyons went to Gaylord, Ed or Robbie McEwen while Ivy looked for Mike Maguire. Art Midgett, Houston Hinson and Reggie Swain carried the bulk of the scoring for Ivy as the teams swapped baskets right down to the wire. Mike Maguire's foul shot with less than 10 seconds put the icing on the cake as Ivy had taken a two point lead on Houston Hinson's unattested lay-up seconds before.

Maguire led the Ivy attack with 29 points while Hinson and Midgett tallied 20 apiece. Milton Gaylord displayed his score-at-will capabilities as he finished the evening with 33. Ed McEwen played his best game of the season and finished the night with 28 points, many assists and a fine defensive effort. Rob McEwen played a fine clutch game for Lyons as he scored 15 points and helped with the rebounding chores. Reggie Swain chipped in 13 points for Ivy and most importantly established some ball movement in the Ivy back courts.

PORSCHE '75
THERE IS NO SUBSTITUTE.
A new 1975 Porsche can be many things. It can be a Carrera (on top) with all the racing blood you could ask for in a high-performance sportscar. Or a 911S with Targa styling (the middle one) which creates more excitement parked than most cars do in fourth gear. Or it could be a mid-engined 914 (the bottom one), a two-seater Porsche that combines everything you'd like in a sportscar with everything you thought you had to give up (like 27 mpg*). But there is one thing these Porsches will never be—and that's like any car you've ever known. They are Porsches. With 25 years of Porsche engineering and design behind them. And for that, there is no substitute.

State Society of Architects Planning Campaign To Re-Open Drumthwacket for Public Use by '76

Drumthwacket, the 143-year-old, 12-acre estate and 20-room historical mansion on Stockton Street, may become the state's new reception center if the New Jersey Society of Architects proves feasibility and gains support of the present owner, the state. Renovation of the long-vacant building and landscaping of the grounds are in the forefront of the Society's architectural program for the Bicentennial celebration next year.

A committee headed by John Zvosec of Princeton will submit recommendations to the NJSA Board of Directors next month that may place the Society in the vanguard of groups seeking to preserve the estate for official and public use.

"The feasibility study will determine," a spokesman for NJSA said, "how the estate can be preserved by such uses as a reception center, a museum, a place for all types of public and private gatherings and even some paying tenants to defray the cost of operation and maintenance. It now costs the state approximately $100,000 a year to provide security and heating while the building remains vacant."

Campaign Planned. The Society then would spearhead a drive to gain state acceptance of the idea, and might even be able "to come up with a plan for funding in order to renovate the building and bring it up to modern standards, and to restore existing landscape features to their original beauty."

The architectural group became interested in Drumthwacket (Scotch for "wooded hill,") which was deeded to New Jersey some time ago to be used for unspecified state purposes, when State Architect Alfred W. Wensley called NJSA's attention to the fact that official functions now are frequently housed in a tent pitched on the grounds of Morven.

"This arrangement is unsatisfactory and expensive," NJSA feels, "and besides, New Jersey deserves better. Drumthwacket is a natural to serve as the site of official functions - depending, or course, on our feasibility study. The grounds are beautiful; the house is ample enough to accommodate most affairs, and besides, it has historic value.

"It is large enough to house a museum, if such be the desire of the state, and permanent second-floor tenants would be sought-- an institution or historical society, for example. We know that, like ourselves, the state is seeking a useful purpose for the building."

Built in 1832. The Stocktons, a prominent, Colonial-period family in Princeton sold the land in 1832 to Charles Smith Olden, who was to become New Jersey's governor in 1859. Olden, who amassed a fortune as a merchant in New Orleans, built the mansion in 1832 as a suburban villa where he could stay in later business travels between New York and Philadelphia.

The property was sold after his death in 1876 to Moses Taylor Pyne. The most recent occupant was Abram Spanel. The state acquired the property in 1965, and the main house has been vacant since then.

TWO AT RCA ELECTED

As IEEE Fellows. Two RCA Laboratories scientists, Dr. Erwin F. Belohoubek and Dr. Karl H. Zaininger, have been elected Fellows of the Institute of Electrical and Electronics Engineers.

Dr. Belohoubek was honored for "contributions to microwave solid state amplifiers and to microwave tubes" and Dr. Zaininger, for "contributions to metal-oxide-semiconductor interface and radiation damage theory and technology." They are among 113 members of the international society elected to the honorary grade of Fellow in recognition of outstanding technical accomplishments.

Dr. Belohoubek, a resident of Kendall Park, joined the RCA Electron Tube Division in Harrison, in 1956 and transferred to the Microwave Applied Research Laboratory at the David Sarnoff Research Center in Princeton in 1957. In 1969, he was named to his present position, Group Head, Microwave Circuits Technology Research, in the RCA Microwave Technology Center.

In 1963 and again in 1967, Dr. Belohoubek received RCA Outstanding Achievement Awards for his research in the microwave field.

Dr. Zaininger, a Princeton resident, joined RCA Laboratories in 1959 and has received two Outstanding Achievement Awards for his research on MOS semiconductor devices. In 1968, he was appointed to his present position, Group Head, Solid State Device Technology Research.

A co-author of a textbook on field effect transistors, Dr. Zaininger has published approximately 50 technical papers and has received three U.S. Patents.

MATHEMATICA REPORTS

6.5 Percent Earnings Rise. Mathematica, Inc. had record revenue and earnings for the six months ended December 31.

Operating revenues increased 34 percent to $7,059,000, from $5,251,400 for the same period a year ago. Net income increased 6.5 percent to $342,000 equal to 49 cents per share, from $321,400 or 46 cents per share a year ago.

Dr. Tibor Fabian, president, said, "These results show the continued progress being made by our company in a difficult economic environment. Although net income was up for the six months, our profit margin for the period was lower than a year ago. This was due in part to a change in the mix of our services; continued problems in our Educational Coordinates subsidiary, and higher than anticipated costs on certain projects. Our backlog is substantial and we continue to be optimistic about the current fiscal year."

ASSOCIATE ADDED

At Weidel Real Estate. Eleanor Mead of Western Way has joined Weidel Real Estate as a sales associate assigned to the Princeton office. Mrs. Mead returned to Princeton last year after several years overseas with her husband, who has been working in developing countries.

Before her marriage to Thomas A. Mead, she worked in various U.S. diplomatic posts in Munich, Ankara, Prague, Vienna, Frankfurt and Teheran. With her husband, she has lived in Ghana, Ivory Coast, Malaysia, Vietnam, and Iran.

Mr. Mead is now a consultant at Princeton University researching the archives of David Lillianthal, and the work of his company, Development Resources Corporation, in the developing countries.

TRENTON MAN CHARGED

In Bracelet Theft. A Trenton resident has been charged with the theft of four silver bracelets Thursday from the Karelia Shop, 20 Nassau. They were valued at $90.

After an employee had given police a description of three suspects, Ptl. Bernard Lenhardt saw a man standing on Palmer Square who fitted one of the descriptions heard over his car radio.

The suspect, Eugene Woodson, 27, was taken to police headquarters where the clerk made a positive identification. The bracelets were recovered, police said.

After being issued a complaint summons, Woodson was released to Lawrence Township police who had a warrant for his arrest.

PUBLIC TV SETS PLANS

For Festival '75. New Jersey's public television network will participate in the observance of Festival '75, a nation-wide effort to increase awareness of and support for public TV.

For viewers of the four Jerseyvision channels, the event will mean an increased schedule of locally-produced programs as well as a number of Public Broadcasting Service specials.

Described as 11 Great Nights of Public TV, the Festival will begin Friday, March 7 and continue through Monday, March 17, according to Dr. Lawrence T. Frymire, executive director of New Jersey Public Broadcasting.

"All of the most popular programs--both local and national--will be seen during Festival '75, but we've added a host of special shows designed to provide a schedule that has something entertaining and interesting for everyone," said Frymire.

The executive director said the network is planning a number of topical festivals within Festival '75, with entire separate evenings of programs on sports, music, theater, science and public affairs.

Ali and Olga. The sports schedule will include live coverage of the N.J.S.I.A.A. girls' championship basketball game, a documentary film portrait of Muhammad Ali, the world heavy-weight boxing champion and a profile on Olga Korbut, 17-year-old Russian gymnast who won the hearts of millions during the 1973 Summer Olympics.

The Music Festival, covering two weekend evenings, will include programs for lovers of jazz, big band, symphony, opera, pops, plus a 90-minute Jerseyvision-produced documentary on a Blue Grass Music Festival.

Frymire said that in addition to making possible the special programming, Festival '75 will serve as a vehicle to enable public television stations across the nation to raise funds through public support.

"While New Jersey Public Broadcasting is an agency of the state with a large share of its support funded by the Legislature, public contributions are needed to finance more local programming and increased activities in the areas of News, Public Affairs and Cultural and Instructional programming," he said.

Created in 1969, New Jersey Public Broadcasting operates WNJS-TV 23, South Jersey; WNJT-TV 52, Trenton; WNJB-TV 50, New Brunswick and WNJM-TV 58, Montclair.

This National Safety Council course is sponsored by the National Association of Retired Persons, the Princeton chapter and the Y. Instructors Reeves Black and J.C. Goelz, both members of the AARP chapter here, have qualified through a special national instructors' program.

A fee of $1 for retired persons and $2 for others will be charged, with 20 participants to be enrolled. Registration should be made at the YMCA.

NUTRITION IS SUBJECT

Of YWCA Talk on Food. The YWCA will sponsor a discussion on food and nutrition, as one of its series of health education and welfare seminars, next Thursday from 10 to 2 at the YWCA on Avalon Place. There is no admission charge.

A funeral was held at the Jewish Center of Princeton, with interment in the United Hebrew Cemetery, Staten Island.

Trevor Blake, 54, former resident of 15 Marion Place, Lawrenceville, died February 23 in London, England, where he and his family had moved last spring.

Mr. Blake was born in England and attended the South End Technical College, South End-on-the-Sea, and the London School of Printing. He served for five years during World War II as a fighter pilot in the Royal Air Force.

He worked for the American Can Company for 18 years, the last seven of those in their Princeton laboratories. He retired early and left the company last January to return to England, where he had purchased property in Wales.

He is survived by his wife, Katherine, and two sons, Peter and David.

Various Measures to Save Energy Backed; Gas Rationing and Higher Taxes Opposed

New Jerseyans are willing to support a wide variety of government actions to deal with the energy crisis, but they draw the line at gas rationing, increased gasoline taxes or relaxing air and water pollution standards. In a study conducted by the Eagleton Institute of Rutgers University last month, 1005 randomly-selected statewide residents were asked if they favor or oppose ten different proposals for dealing with the nation's energy problems.

Dr. Stephen A. Salmore, Director of the New Jersey Poll, reported there was widespread support for measures which would increase the supply of energy. By 85 to 14 percent, respondents favored increasing research funds to develop new sources of energy.

Increased use of atomic energy to generate electricity was favored by 74 to 16 percent. By a somewhat smaller margin of 67 to 26, increased off-shore drilling for oil was also favored. Increased coal production by strip mining barely received majority support, with 54 percent in favor and 33 opposed.

Dr. Salmore noted that, "While most people are willing to overlook environmentalists' objections to off-shore oil drilling, nuclear generating plants and strip mining, they do not want to see a wholesale retreat from recently-enacted controls on air and water pollution." By a 60 to 36 percent margin, New Jerseyans oppose relaxing laws controlling air and water pollution as means of dealing with our energy problems.

The Poll also found widespread support for two measures that would reduce the consumption of gasoline. Strict enforcement of the 55 mile per hour speed limit was favored by 84 to 15 percent, while increased expenditures for mass transit was favored by 74 to 22 percent.

More direct measures to reduce the consumption of gasoline were strongly opposed. By 63 to 33 percent, gasoline rationing was rejected. By an even wider margin of 80 percent to 17 percent most respondents were opposed to increasing gasoline taxes. When specifically asked to choose between gasoline rationing and a 20-cent a gallon gallon increase in gasoline taxes, rationing was favored by 68 percent to 25 percent.

Opinion was evenly divided on the question of imposing heavy taxes on large and powerful cars with 48 percent in favor and 49 percent opposed.

KORNBLUM TO LEAVE
For Post in Washington. Allan N. Kornblum, Director of Security at Princeton University for the past five years, has accepted an appointment in the U.S. Department of Justice effective March 10.

Subject to completion of the routine background investigation, Mr. Kornblum will become attorney advisor in the Office of Justice Policy and Planning, a staff arm of the Deputy Attorney General in Washington, D.C. He will be responsible for policy planning relating to the Department's investigative agencies, the FBI, the Drug Enforcement Administration and the Immigration and Naturalization Service.

While serving as supervisor of a 24-hour a day service which includes a non-uniformed proctor force of 23 and a uniformed force of 57, Mr. Kornblum found time to earn in September 1973 a Ph.D. from Princeton's Woodrow Wilson School of Public and International Affairs. His dissertation was on strategies to control corruption in the New York City Police Department, where he once served as a patrolman. He has drawn on this material for a book manuscript which is currently under consideration for publication.

Also, during his period with Princeton, Mr. Kornblum attended the "Intermediate Command Course," at Bramshill, the British National Police College. Prior to his coming to Princeton, Mr. Kornblum was Special Agent with the Federal Bureau of Investigation from 1965 to 1969 assigned to field offices in Tampa, Fla., Jackson, Miss., and New York City.

MS. SCHNEIER WINS
Battle Over Name. Unless the decision is overturned on appeal, Princeton Democratic committeewoman Janice B. Schneier has won her fight to vote, and run for public office, under her own rather than her husband's name.

Allan N. Kornblum

Ms. Schneier has been known by that name for years in Borough and Mercer County politics. But last fall she married Joseph Stonaker. Earlier this month the Mercer County Superintendent of Elections notified her that her name had been removed from the list of eligible voters, because she had not reregistered under the name of her present husband.

The superintendent's ruling would have also forced Ms. Schneier to run for committeewoman in June under the name Stonaker rather than the name by which she has been known for years.

This Monday, represented by Princeton attorney Joyce Usiskin, Ms. Schneier appealed to Superior Court Judge George Y. Schoch.

The judge signed a temporary injunction restoring her name, Ms. Schneier, to the list of eligible voters. On March 12 he will hear arguments, if any, on why the injunction should not be made permanent.

News Of The CHURCHES

HUNGER ACTION GROWS
Fund Drive Launched. At a town meeting Sunday attended by Congressman Helen Meyner, the Princeton Interfaith Council and two affiliated groups launched a Princeton World Hunger Fund through which nearly all donations from the community will be funnelled.

To date, $15,000 has been raised by religious organizations, $13,000 by last October's CROP walk, and $800 by the Hunger Fund, figures which prompted the Rev. William Kirby, chairman of the P.I.C.'s Social Concerns Committee, to comment, "the snowball is beginning to roll." The group has informally decided to direct this money through Ox-Fam America, a secular group, and CROP, a church group.

Most churches are working through the P.I.C., while a few such as Nassau Presbyterian are sending collections directly to missionaries oversees. Parishioners may make out checks to the Princeton World Hunger Fund and pass them through their church collection plates, designating a recipient group if they wish without overhead fees being subtracted.

Mrs. Meyner announced at the meeting her support of the group's work and offered her assistance to any Washington lobbying efforts. The P.I.C. is beginning to discuss plans for a town meeting visit to Washington to lobby for better Food for Peace distribution.

CONFERENCE PLANNED
On Women in the Church. The Women's Center of Princeton Theological Seminary will sponsor a one-day conference on women in the church, "We're in This Together," on Saturday, March 8, beginning at 9 a.m. in the Seminary's Campus Center. The meeting is designed to facilitate communication and understanding between women in the professional ministry and those of the laity.

The principal speakers are announced as Ms. Mary Pardee, national president of United Presbyterian Women, and Ms. Jean Huffman from the Vocational Agency of the national offices, United Presbyterian Church in the U.S.A. Ms. Pardee will address herself to "The Strength of Diversity"; Ms. Huffman, to "Experience of the Professional Woman Minister."

In the panel discussion which follows, they will be joined by Ms. Laura Jervis, a Senior in the Master of Divinity program at Princeton Seminary, and Ms. Freda A. Gardner, Assistant Professor of Christian Education, as moderator. Small-group discussions will comprise the afternoon program, and the conference will close with a service of worship.

The visitors' registration fee of $3 includes lunch. Princeton Seminary boarding students will be charged $1.50. For information or applications, write to Ms. Nancy J. Gorsuch, 407 Hodge Hall, Princeton Theological Seminary or call 921-6445.

RUMMAGE SALE SET
At Trinity Church. Trinity Episcopal Church will hold its second annual rummage sale on Saturday, March 15, from 10 to 4:30 in Pierce Hall, 33 Mercer Street. During the same hours, a food sale will be held in the Flemer Library of the church, with the proceeds being given to the Princeton World Hunger Fund.

The rummage sale will include clothing for men, women and children, plus a large collection of books, toys, games, and kitchen items. Other choice items will be fishing equipment, a ping-pong table, a suede cape, stereo and camera equipment, an intercom system and furs.

GUESTS TO PREACH
At Lutheran Church. The Prince of Peace Lutheran Church will welcome Dr. Donald Juel, a professor at the Princeton Theological Seminary, and the Rev. Carl Kurapati, a Lutheran pastor from India who is now attending the Seminary, as guest preachers to lead this Sunday's worship service at 10.

Both men will administer Holy Communion, as is the church's custom on the first Sunday of each month. The Rev. Frederick Schott, pastor of the church, will be participating in a youth retreat all weekend.

Following the service, which meets in the Maurice Hawk School on Clarksville Road, there is Sunday School at 11. During the Sunday School hour, an adult class is currently engaged in a series of discussions on "human sexuality" led by Dr. Herbert Anderson, a professor from Princeton Theological Seminary. All are welcome.

BULLETIN NOTES
Christ Congregation will celebrate an anniversary service of worship this Sunday in recognition of the first service held on the first Sunday of March in 1955 at the Chapel of the Westminster Choir College. The church now has its own building across Walnut Lane from the College.

The Morning Star Church of God in Christ will hold a benefit dinner of turkey, fried chicken, spaghetti and meatballs, and vegetables (string beans, collard greens, cole slaw and candied yams), this Saturday from 12 to 7 at 45 Birch Avenue. The donation will be $3.50.

"Focus of Growth" will be the group sermon topic presented by members of the Sharing in Growth program at the Unitarian Church on Sunday at 10.

An attractive, well kept rancher, which will reduce housekeeping to a minimum. There are 6 bright rooms, the living room has a fireplace, there is a separate dining room, and the kitchen features both cabinet space galore and a generous eating area.

The sleeping area (three bedrooms and two baths) is quietly isolated from living activities. The master area is again separate and has its private bath. Both baths are complete with the master bath having a spacious shower area.

The heated garage easily stores two full sized cars and has additional space for hobbies. The lot abounds with mature plantings and trees. This excellent offering is immediately available and priced most realistically at $45,000.
